Bohlen Says Russia Ends Stalinism

Envoy Tells Ike Of New Policies For Dictatorship

WASHINGTON, April 20 (P)—Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen is understood to have told President Eisenhower today that the present rulers of Russia—including Eisenhower's old friend, Marshal Zhukov—are really through with Stalinism and are trying to make collective dictatorship work.

Bohlen has been here for almost two weeks conferring with State Department officials on recent changes in Soviet behavior and new trends in Soviet policy. He spent 20 minutes with Eisenhower today preparatory to leaving Washington this afternoon on the first leg of his journey back to Moscow.

Watched Development

Bohlen has watched the development of the rule of Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai Bulganin and has studied at close hand the repudiation of Stalin.

Earlier he had watched the ouster of former Premier Georgi Malenkov, who succeeded to power on Stalin's death, and the ups and downs of veteran diplomat V. M. Molotov, whose power now definitely appears to be on the decline.

The policy review which has gone on at the State Department since Bohlen's return to Washington has led to high-level speculation that Malenkov, regarded by many in Moscow as an extremely able man, may some day return to the premiership but Molotov will not recover his power. He may end up as President, a figurehead post, if and when the aged Klementi Voroshilov steps aside.

Bohlen is believed to have told Eisenhower that Zhukov commands a position of considerable respect and even deference in the Soviet ruling group. He ranks as Russian defense minister and as a top-flight professional soldier with a record of Communist party association going back to the Soviet Revolution.

No Struggle For Power

Bohlen reportedly does not consider, however, that Zhukov is engaged in any struggle for power inside the collective dictatorship group. On the contrary the impression created here in the last two weeks by the study review, including information provided by Bohlen, is that the dominant internal political power of men like Khrushchev, Bulganin, Zhukov and Malenkov, is to make the collective work. In a sense they are trying to establish the Soviet dictatorship system so that it will exist beyond any particular individual's grasp on power.

Stamp Honors Prince And Grace

MONTE CARLO, April 20 (P)—The sale of the special stamp issue honoring the wedding of Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier III was a big success. It more than took care of Monaco's share of the wedding bills. Monacan officials reported tonight the sets of eight stamps priced at $2.83 a set brought in about $571,000 from buyers over the world.

Rayburn Named Demo Chairman

Sam To Preside At Convention

WASHINGTON, April 20 (P)—The Democratic high command, heading into the presidential campaign in near-desperate financial plight, tapped Speaker Sam Rayburn today to preside at the party's National Convention next August.

The financial crisis facing the party was the outstanding problem arising at the start of a two-day strategy conference which brought together Democratic leaders from across the nation.

This is the picture: The Democrats have about $100,000 in the bank, debts of more than $25,000, a surplus of less than $75,000, and ticket sales to a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner tomorrow night have been going slow.

Deprived Of Time

And National Chairman Paul M. Butler charged that the GOP has taken a "concerted, carefully conceived effort to deprive us of time to get our story to the American people," by refusing to join in a joint television debate at network expense.

Butler, directed his accusation at his Republican rival, GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall. He said the National Broadcasting Co. offered the two party chairmen a chance to spend 7½ minutes every Friday morning until the election discussing campaign activities and issues. Butler said he accepted but Hall rejected the offer and "it cuts us off the air."

The Republicans, he said, have all the money they need to buy time and they get free time for "reports" to the people by President Eisenhower.

Speaking to an open meeting of the Democratic National Committee, Butler roared:

Break Iron Curtain

"We are going to break this iron curtain of the one-party press. We are going to get our story to the people regardless of what the opposition does to control the media of communication."

Hall countered Butler's accusation with this statement: "In recent months Paul Butler has whined about a so-called one-party press, his inability to raise money, and now his inability to get free television time. And in some way he is not clear to anyone, he tries to blame me. How silly can he get?"

"His cry-baby alibis are a transparent effort to cover up the dissen-sion in his own party and the utter bankruptcy of the Democratic program."

The decision to hand over to Rayburn the gavel of the permanent chairman of the party convention in Chicago was pretty much a matter of course. The Texan has had the hope for years. Who will be the temporary chairman—a man to deliver the keynote address at the convention—was left for decision at a meeting of the Convention Arrangements Committee to be held in Chicago late next month.

Butler did tell the Executive Committee that two suggestions had been made to him in writing for the keynoter—Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee and Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota.

In various strategy sessions, Democrats were talking hopefully of making political hay out of President Eisenhower's veto of the farm bill.

Prince Resigns

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia, April 20 (P)—King Suramarit has accepted the resignation of his son, ex-Premier Prince Norodom Sihanouk, as chief of the Cambodian U. N. delegation, a government announcement said today. The resignation was submitted several weeks ago.

UN Secretary Feels Efforts 'On Right Road'

JERUSALEM, April 20 (P)—Dag Hammarskjöld wound up the second week of his Middle East peace mission today with the declaration "I am sure we are on the right road."

"Personally I don't see any reason why we should lose it," the U. N. secretary general told newsmen after completing four days of talks with Israeli officials in Jerusalem.

Against a background of new friction on the Jordan-Israeli frontier, Hammarskjöld took a plane for his temporary headquarters in Beirut, Lebanon. With conferences in Egypt and Israel out of the way, he expects to visit Jordan and Syria next week. He opened the mission with his flight from New York April 6 under Security Council orders to seek an easing of tension.

"This particular job is very much like attempting to build an arch," he said in a statement at Lydda airport. "I feel the second stone put into the building here in Israel is as good as the first one (in Cairo). But an arch is not stable until all stones are in place."

The Egyptian-Israeli cease-fire agreement, ordered effective Wednesday night, is the mission's biggest announced accomplishment.

Egypt charged Israel has violated that cease-fire agreement both ground and in the air. Israeli spokesmen denied it and U. N. officials in Cairo described the cases as "minor incidents of little importance."

Emphasizing that Egypt was abiding by the cease-fire, Egyptian spokesmen declared Israeli soldiers fired on a post in the Gaza Strip yesterday and Israeli planes flew over the area today for the third straight day.

While brushing off those accusations, Israel presented a fresh charge of trouble on the Jordanian flank.

A military spokesman said a Jordanian gun fired from inside Israeli territory at an Israeli military car in the Beit Gurvin area of the Judean Hills last night. The Israelis fired back, he said, and suffered no casualties.

This followed up complaints by both sides of shooting in the south Wednesday. The Israelis said an Israeli soldier was killed and the Jordanians reported two Jordanian national guardsmen were shot to death.

Long Wait Is Not In Vain

PEABODY, Mass., April 20 (P)—Donald Jelly, a typical American boy who likes a typical American sport—fishing—banked a catch of $1,037 today after a year's wait.

The good-looking, 15-year-old high school sophomore had to pass up a school baseball game this afternoon to get the money, which he fished out of Ipswich River a year ago yesterday with rod and reel.

The cash—all in bills—was in a cardboard box and no one claimed it after a year's expiration.

Donald and his widowed mother, Elizabeth, picked up the money today at the Warren National Bank, where it had been kept in the name of the Police Department.

Donald says the money will be used to assist in his college education or "to help my mother."

But, being a good fisherman, he went into a hardware store and examined some new rods. Fishing, he realizes, can be profitable.

And, besides the fishing season opens tomorrow.

On April 3, Israel asked Canada to sell it between 20 and 36 Sabre jet fighters.

NEW YORK, April 20 (P)—A 57-year-old policeman was accidentally killed by a shot from his own service revolver today, apparently while hurrying downstairs in his home to watch the Baltimore Orioles on television.

Patrolman August D. King was pronounced dead from a bullet wound in the chest.

Soviet Seaman Got Away

Victor Solov'yev, 20-year-old Soviet seaman, answers questions through his pretty interpreter, Natalie Von Meyer of Washington, as he testifies before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. Solov'yev said he got away but he was certain that at least two of five Russian seamen who had sought U. S. asylum and then redefected did not want to return home. (AP Photofax).

Russian Protest Of H-Bomb Test Is Propaganda

WASHINGTON, April 20 (P)—Red-faced State Department officials had some difficulty today in finding Russia's protest note about the forthcoming H-bomb tests—but when they finally did they labeled it propaganda.

Moscow radio announced that Russia had delivered to Washington on Wednesday a note protesting the tests in the Pacific.

This surprised State Department officials, who hadn't heard of the note. They went looking for it and tracked it down in the department's translation section.

Presumably the Russians had handed it to some receptionist, and it was started through routine channels without diplomatic officials knowing about it.

The initial reaction of officials tonight was that the Soviets were making a propaganda play on an issue which had already been thrashed out in the U. N. Trusteeship Council.

The purpose of the move was regarded as being to appeal to India, possibly Japan, and other countries which do not like atomic and hydrogen weapons tests.

Officials said the Soviets cannot protest against setting off test explosions because they have done that many times themselves in Siberia. Therefore, it was felt they have taken an oblique method of attacking the United States by charging a violation of this country's trusteeship responsibilities for the Pacific islands.

The essence of the Russian protest was that the projected tests to be held at Eniwetok about May 8 violates the U. S. commitments under the U. N. Charter for the protection of trust territories. It also claimed that the tests threaten "the well-being" of a number of states in the Pacific Ocean area.

Officials rejected the whole Russian argument as old and baseless.

Cease Fire Has Bearing On Order For Jet Aircraft

OTTAWA, April 20 (P)—The Israel-Egypt cease-fire will have a bearing on the Canadian government's decision whether to fill an Israeli order for Canadian jet fighter planes, Foreign Secretary Lester Pearson said today.

He said the Cabinet discussed the question yesterday and will discuss it again next week. However, it would be unrealistic to expect a decision before U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld reports on his peace mission to the Middle East, Pearson added.

On April 3, Israel asked Canada to sell it between 20 and 36 Sabre jet fighters.

Quick Payoff Seen

NEW YORK, April 20 (P)—State Housing Commissioner Joseph P. McMurray estimates that income taxes from New York's new Coliseum, to open April 28, will in one year more than pay back the $6,326,000 the federal government contributed toward land acquisition under a slum clearance program.

Former Staff Chiefs Warn Of Buildup In Russian Armament

WASHINGTON, April 20 (P)—Two former chiefs of staff warned against Russian "soft soap" today and stressed the Soviet buildup in naval as well as airpower—especially submarines.

Gen. Carl Spaatz, retired former Air Force chief, predicted that if the Russians strike this country they probably will use a Pearl Harbor-type surprise blow, combining submarine bombardment with aerial attack.

Adm. Robert Carney, who served as chief of naval operations before his retirement, said Soviet naval power has grown greatly since World War II and added:

"Even in the event of atomic war, loss of the seas could be the deciding factor if tough nations fought on after the initial exchange of the crippling blow."

The two ex-chiefs spoke out at a public hearing before a special Senate group studying relative U. S.-Soviet air power. Gen. Curtis LeMay, head of the Strategic Air Command, will be heard next Wednesday.

Spaatz said that if a Russian attack comes it probably will come after Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party boss Khrushchev have "soft-soaped" the world into believing there will be no attack.

He said the Russians have 400 submarines which, if equipped

Seaman Reveals How He Escaped To U. S. Asylum

WASHINGTON, April 20 (P)—A young Russian seaman, testifying today on how he thwarted Soviet attempts to whisk him back home from his U. S. asylum, accidentally let slip the name of the city where he is living.

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee struck it from the record. It appealed to reporters at the hearing not to disclose the residence of 20-year-old Viktor Solov'yev.

Most reporters scratched the address from their notes.

But not Vladimir Paramanov, He reports for Tass, the Soviet government's news agency.

He left "Yonkers, N. Y." in his notes.

Fire Disrupts Safety Lecture

BALTIMORE, April 20 (P)—A class at School No. 139 was to have heard a lecture on fire safety today but it was put off when, firemen said, a small boy set a fire in a coatroom and forced the evacuation of 1,200 students.

Capt. Paul Hood of the arson squad said a boy admitted he tossed a match into a cupboard used for teachers' coats. Some coats owned by teachers and pupils were destroyed.

Reds Reduce Jamming

LONDON, April 20 (P)—British officials said tonight the Soviet Union has cut down its jamming of Russian-beamed broadcasts from Britain by about 40 per cent in the past 48 hours.

Attempt To Blow Up Monument To Soldier Is Made

BEIRUT, Lebanon, April 20 (P)—An unsuccessful attempt to blow up a monument to France's Unknown Soldier was made here today.

The dynamite blast rocked the city's French quarter and shattered windows in houses. The monument itself suffered little damage.

The attempt was believed to have been a protest by Arab nationalists at French policy in Algeria.

GOP Challenges Emergency Soil Bank Fund Okay

WASHINGTON, April 20 (P)—Republicans on the House Appropriations Committee took a second look today at the $1,200,000,000 soil bank appropriation approved by the committee yesterday—and then raised the roof.

They challenged the committee's legislative authority to vote the money, stated that no more than 250 million dollars worth of it could be used for anything but preventing soil erosion, and declared only a limited acreage could be taken out of production before the appropriation expires Dec. 31.

The committee approved the fund 36-7 yesterday as an emergency measure to launch President Eisenhower's plan to pay farmers for withdrawing some of their land from the production of crops now in surplus.

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo.) reported that only one Democrat and six of the 20 Republicans on the committee voted against the appropriation, although all the Republicans were opposed to a report which accompanied the bill.

Today's critical report by GOP committeemen came after Secretary of Agriculture Benson called the appropriation a "gold brick" that can't be used to help farmers.

"They put the cart before the horse," Benson said. "Appropriating $1,200,000,000 for the soil bank recommended by the President without giving us the authority to spend it for the soil bank certainly won't help our farmers."

GOP committee members said today they agreed in principle with making funds available for the soil bank plan, but "consistent with sound legislative procedure and authorization."

They charged they were not consulted by the Democrats and said they had only a half-hour's notice that the bill was to be presented to the committee yesterday.

As House Republicans balked over the appropriations action, Democratic leaders called the bill before the House Rules Committee on Tuesday for House consideration and predicted passage Wednesday.

Fire, Floor Wax Can't Be Mixed

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 20 (P)—Take one pint-sized youngster, and one pint-sized can of floor wax and—boom.

Donald Davis, 1½-years-old, dropped the wax in a turkey-sized broiler yesterday. Later, his mother lit the kitchen gas oven.

The mixture exploded and burned. Mrs. Davis hustled Donald and his 3-year-old brother outside. Then she returned, grabbed the flaming broiler, and threw it outside.

Firemen said floor wax is not necessarily a fire hazard but it should not be cooked.

Legless Veteran Wins In Battle For Reinstatement

WASHINGTON, April 20 (P)—James Kutcher, the legless World War II veteran who was fired from his government job on grounds of "reasonable doubt" as to his loyalty, today won a major victory in his fight for reinstatement.

The U. S. Court of Appeals ruled that Kutcher, a "Trotskyite," was improperly ousted as a $3,600-a-year clerk in the Veterans Administration office in Newark, N. J., in 1948.

His attorneys, headed by Joseph L. Rauh Jr., said they assumed Kutcher will be reinstated prior to any new steps by the VA to get rid of him.

The VA said the case is still in the hands of the Justice Department, which will decide whether to appeal from today's 2-1 ruling.

If he is reinstated, Kutcher stands to collect more than $20,000 in back pay.

Several months ago the VA cut off the $329-a-month compensation Kutcher was receiving for the loss of his legs while serving as a U. S. infantryman in Italy.

Agree To Join Eden To Draw Up Proposals

Eisenhower To Get Information In UN Effort To Avoid War

LONDON, April 20 (P)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev agreed today to join the British in a search for a Middle East peace plan.

The Kremlin leaders and Prime Minister Eden ordered their experts to submit proposals for a U. N. program aimed to avoid war between Arabs and Israelis.

Diplomatic sources said President Eisenhower will be kept informed.

A joint communique said of the morning's talks:

"This meeting was devoted to a discussion on the Middle East. It was agreed that representatives of both sides should prepare, on the basis of this useful discussion, appropriate proposals for further consideration."

The experts were ordered to report by next Tuesday, diplomatic sources said.

Would Touch Off H-Bomb War

Eden was understood to have told the Russians that an Arab-Israeli conflict could touch off an H-bomb war between the Communist and Western worlds.

Khrushchev told the British at a luncheon yesterday that Communists and capitalists, however much they dislike each other, must strive to maintain peace lest H-bomb warfare destroy both.

The British have long had the impression that Russia does not see the Middle East situation as dangerous. Eden will have another chance to drive home his view in informal chats this weekend at Chequers, his official country residence. The Russians will be his overnight guests here.

Three big Middle East problems immediately faced Eden and his guests:

1. Devising a system of rationing the supply of Communist and Western arms to the Arabs and Israelis. Britain is understood to have ready a plan whereby the arms would be rationed by the U. N.

2. How to block and turn back any aggressor.

3. What to do about the Baghdad Alliance of Britain, Turkey, Iraq, Iran and Pakistan. The Russians regard the pact as a threat to them and have demanded it be disbanded.

In Favor Of Action

All three major powers—the United States, Britain and Russia—have come out in favor of action through the U. N. to prevent a Middle East war and promote a stable peace.

Eisenhower was clearly being consulted by the British and perhaps was helping to call the signals in the talks with the Russians.

Bulganin and Khrushchev earlier today dangled before trade hungry Britain a multimillion-dollar contract for strategic shipping to be built in British yards. The offers are expected to be rejected. Then the Soviet rulers sailed down the Thames River to the Royal Naval College at Greenwich. There they dined and with the lords of the British Admiralty.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., April 20 (P)—Up to five inches of snow fell today in northern New York, state police reported. Temperatures were below freezing.

Moscow radio announced that Russia had delivered to Washington on Wednesday a note protesting the tests in the Pacific.

This surprised State Department officials, who hadn't heard of the note. They went looking for it and tracked it down in the department's translation section.

Presumably the Russians had handed it to some receptionist, and it was started through routine channels without diplomatic officials knowing about it.

The initial reaction of officials tonight was that the Soviets were making a propaganda play on an issue which had already been thrashed out in the U. N. Trusteeship Council.

The purpose of the move was regarded as being to appeal to India, possibly Japan, and other countries which do not like atomic and hydrogen weapons tests.

Officials said the Soviets cannot protest against setting off test explosions because they have done that many times themselves in Siberia. Therefore, it was felt they have taken an oblique method of attacking the United States by charging a violation of this country's trusteeship responsibilities for the Pacific islands.

The essence of the Russian protest was that the projected tests to be held at Eniwetok about May 8 violates the U. S. commitments under the U. N. Charter for the protection of trust territories. It also claimed that the tests threaten "the well-being" of a number of states in the Pacific Ocean area.

Officials rejected the whole Russian argument as old and baseless.

Seaman Reveals How He Escaped To U. S. Asylum

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—A young Russian seaman, testifying today on how he thwarted Soviet attempts to whisk him back home from his U. S. asylum, accidentally let slip the name of the city where he is living.

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee struck it from the record. It appealed to reporters at the hearing not to disclose the residence of 20-year-old Viktor Solovoyev.

Most reporters scratched the address from their notes.

But not Vladimir Paramanov. He reports for Tass, the Soviet government's news agency.

He left "Yonkers, N. Y." in his notes.

Fire Disrupts Safety Lecture

BALTIMORE, April 20 (AP)—A class at School No. 139 was to have heard a lecture on fire safety today but it was put off when, firemen said, a small boy set a fire in a classroom and forced the evacuation of 1,200 students.

Capt. Paul Hood of the arson squad said a boy admitted he tossed a match into a cupboard used for teachers' coats. Some coats owned by teachers and pupils were destroyed.

Reds Reduce Jamming

LONDON, April 20 (AP)—British officials said tonight the Soviet Union has cut down its jamming of Russian-beamed broadcasts from Britain by about 40 per cent in the past 48 hours.

Former Staff Chiefs Warn Of Buildup In Russian Armament

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—Two former chiefs of staff warned against Russian "soft soap" today and stressed the Soviet buildup in naval as well as airpower—especially submarines.

Gen. Carl Spaatz, retired former Air Force chief, predicted that if the Russians strike this country they probably will use a Pearl Harbor-type surprise blow, combining submarine bombardment with aerial attack.

Adm. Robert Carney, who served as chief of naval operations before his retirement, said Soviet naval power has grown greatly since World War II and added:

"Even in the event of atomic war, loss of the seas could be the deciding factor if tough nations fought on after the initial exchange of the crippling blow."

The two ex-chiefs spoke out at a public hearing before a special Senate group studying relative U. S.-Soviet air power. Gen. Curtis LeMay, head of the Strategic Air Command, will be heard next Wednesday.

Spaatz said that if a Russian attack comes it probably will come after Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party boss Khrushchev have "soft-soaped" the world into believing there will be no attack.

He said the Russians have 400 submarines which, if equipped with guided missiles carrying atomic warheads, could stand off the coast and rain destruction on this country. He said he does not believe the Soviets now have the missiles and warheads for such an attack, but he added that does not mean they won't have them by the time this country's current defense appropriations have been turned into weapons.

In answer to a question by Sen. Duff (R-Pa.), Spaatz said the United States could muster an effective counterattack now but the important question was four or five years from now.

Asserting U. S. defense preparations must be geared to what the situation will be a few years hence, Spaatz said:

"We can't do anything about today's forces. They are already here, determined by the appropriations of four or five years ago."

He said it occurred to him that more money might be put into meeting the submarine menace, rather than into additional aircraft carriers which he said are submarine targets.

Sen. Symington (D-Mo.), chairman of the special subcommittee, noted that while the number of U. S. submarines has not been disclosed, "it is known that we have in service hundreds less than the Soviets."

Cyprus Rebel Violence Erupts

NICOSIA, Cyprus, April 20 (AP)—Rebel violence erupted over a wide area of Cyprus tonight. A British official of the American-owned Cyprus Mines Corp. was killed and two other persons were wounded.

The dead man was identified as T. K. Bogdanovitch, 56, chief of security for the mining firm. He was a native of Yugoslavia who became a naturalized British subject.

He was shot down by two gunmen standing outside his home at the village of Xeros on the north coast of Cyprus.

An unidentified Greek Cypriot was wounded when the gunman fired on Bogdanovitch with a shotgun and an automatic pistol.

It was the third incident in a week involving Cyprus Mines, the island's biggest civilian employer. The company's president is Henry T. Mudd of Los Angeles.

Two time bombs were planted under oil storage tanks on company property April 17 but caused little damage. Last night a company-owned bathing establishment was set afire.

In Paphos, on Cyprus' west coast, a member of the British security forces was wounded tonight when a bomb was thrown at a police vehicle.

Attempt To Blow Up Monument To Soldier Is Made

BEIRUT, Lebanon, April 20 (AP)—An unsuccessful attempt to blow up a monument to France's Unknown Soldier was made here today.

The dynamite blast rocked the city's French quarter and shattered windows in houses. The monument itself suffered little damage.

The attempt was believed to have been a protest by Arab nationalists at French policy in Algeria.

Agree To Join Eden To Draw Up Proposals

LONDON, April 20 (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev agreed today to join the British in a search for a Middle East peace plan.

The Kremlin leaders and Prime Minister Eden ordered their experts to submit proposals for a U. N. program aimed to avoid war between Arabs and Israelis.

Diplomatic sources said President Eisenhower will be kept informed.

A joint communique said of the morning's talks:

"This meeting was devoted to a discussion on the Middle East. It was agreed that representatives of both sides should prepare, on the basis of this useful discussion, appropriate proposals for further consideration."

The experts were ordered to report by next Tuesday, diplomatic sources said.

Would Touch Off H-Bomb War
Eden was understood to have told the Russians that an Arab-Israeli conflict could touch off an H-bomb war between the Communist and Western worlds.

Khrushchev told the British at a luncheon yesterday that Communists and capitalists, however much they dislike each other, must strive to maintain peace lest H-bomb warfare destroy both.

The British have long had the impression that Russia does not see the Middle East situation as dangerous. Eden will have another chance to drive home his view in informal chats this weekend at Chequers, his official country residence. The Russians will be his overnight guests there.

Three big Middle East problems immediately faced Eden and his guests:

1. Devising a system of rationing the supply of Communist and Western arms to the Arabs and Israelis. Britain is understood to have ready a plan whereby the arms would be rationed by the U. N.

2. How to block and turn back any aggressor.

3. What to do about the Baghdad Alliance of Britain, Turkey, Iraq, Iran and Pakistan. The Russians regard the pact as a threat to them and have demanded it be dissolved.

In Favor Of Action
All three major powers—the United States, Britain and Russia—have come out in favor of action through the U. N. to prevent a Middle East war and promote a stable peace.

Eisenhower was clearly being consulted by the British and perhaps was helping to call the signals in the talks with the Russians.

Bulganin and Khrushchev earlier today dangled before trade-hungry Britain a multimillion-dollar contract for strategic shipping to be built in British yards. The offers are expected to be rejected.

Then the Soviet rulers sailed down the Thames River to the Royal Naval College at Greenwich. There they dined and with the lords of the British Admiralty.

Legless Veteran Wins In Battle For Reinstatement

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—James Kutcher, the legless World War II veteran who was fired from his government job on grounds of "reasonable doubt" as to his loyalty, today won a major victory in his fight for reinstatement.

The U. S. Court of Appeals ruled that Kutcher, a "Trotskyite," was improperly ousted as a $3,600-a-year clerk in the Veterans Administration office in Newark, N. J., in 1948.

His attorneys, headed by Joseph L. Rauh Jr., said they assumed Kutcher will be reinstated prior to any new steps by the VA to get rid of him.

The VA said the case is still in the hands of the Justice Department, which will decide whether to appeal from today's 2-1 ruling.

If he is reinstated, Kutcher stands to collect more than $20,000 in back pay.

Several months ago the VA cut off the $329-a-month compensation Kutcher was receiving for the loss of his legs while serving as a U. S. infantryman in Italy.

Rescuers Hope To Save Trapped Miner

SUNNYSIDE, Utah, April 20 (AP)—Rescue crews dug with fading hope but renewed determination today to find a buried coal miner after his three companions were found alive and almost unharmed.

The rescuers drilled and dug through the rock-and-coal rubble of a cave-in three miles inside a mountain mine for crew foreman Joseph Otterstrom, 58, of Sunnyside, father of six.

The three rescued men were kept alive for 39 to 44 hours by sheltering machinery and the kind of calm courage that fought off panic and enabled one of them to cut off the tip of his own thumb in an effort to free a trapped hand.

Officials of Kaiser Coal Co. said there was no sign that Otterstrom was still alive under the tons of rock and coal that crashed down from the roof of the mine tunnel Wednesday afternoon.

"But we didn't have much hope for the other three, either," said mine engineer Joe Taylor.

The others, rescued one at a time early today, rested in a hospital in this little east-central Utah mining community. They sipped soup, nursed minor injuries and told how they joked and prayed during their long hours of living burial with coal piled more than 10 feet deep above the machinery that protected them.

Most seriously injured was 43-year-old Joe Archuleta of Dragoon, who has two children. As he tumbled beneath a loading machine his hands were caught between the loader and a falling beam.

He worked his left hand free, got out a pocket knife and hacked off the tip of his right thumb. Archuleta said that eased his pain, but one finger was still caught. The rescuers had to use a hammer and cold chisel to cut off half the finger before he could be pulled out. "I didn't mind—as long as I was still alive," he said.

The others rescued are LaVell Golding, 42, of Wellington, Utah, father of four, and Lloyd Allen Heath, 36, of Sunnyside, father of five.

Golding was freed at 4 a. m. 39 hours after the cave-in. Archuleta was next, at 5:55 a. m., and Heath last, at 8 a. m.

Doctors said all three were in very good condition.

"I thought they would never get me," Heath said. "I prayed all the time."

"It was the most terrible experience I have had in my 15 years of mining," Archuleta said. "We kept each other's spirits up by telling jokes and whistling . . ."

While families of the rescued men gathered at their bedsides, Otterstrom's family continued the interminable wait.

The cave-in occurred Wednesday at 1:40 p. m. at the dead end of a tunnel in the No. 2 mine of the Kaiser Coal Co.—about 125 miles southeast of Salt Lake City. Officials said they believed it caused by a "bounce"—a small localized earthquake.

A section of the tunnel roof about 30 feet deep and 150 feet long collapsed.

Woman Given Added Sentence

BALTIMORE, April 20 (AP)—Mrs. Naomi M. Ringrose, 49, serving a five year term for embezzling credit union funds, got another sentence in Federal Court today for failing to file an income tax return for 1952.

Judge Roszel C. Thomsen sentenced her to one year, to run concurrently with her present sentence. In effect, this will extend her imprisonment several months past the Nov. 4, 1956 date when she would expect parole.

Judge Thomsen also fined her $1,000.

Mrs. Ringrose first got into trouble with the government in 1953. She was accused of embezzling $395,000 from the Social Security Workers Credit Union of Baltimore, where she was office manager and bookkeeper. She pleaded guilty to embezzlement, but said she only took about $100,000.

Judge W. Calvin Chesnut gave her five years on May 1, 1953, and fined her $5,000. Testimony brought out that she used the credit union funds for purchasing an elaborate house, expensive car, mink capes and lavish parties.

Today, Assistant U. S. Atty. John H. Somerville told the court Mrs. Ringrose had a gross income in 1952 of $23,962, most of it from a beauty salon she operated. Her taxable income was $4,616 and she should have paid $1,311, he said.

Boy, 14, Shot To Death While Fleeing Police

BALTIMORE, April 20 (AP)—A 14-year-old boy was shot to death and a second youth was wounded critically in trying to flee from police here today.

Robert McClain, Negro, was fatally wounded by City Patrolman Donald Michael early today, Capt. John B. Kennealy reported.

About 12 hours later the second boy, not identified, was shot when he refused to halt for Pennsylvania Railroad police investigating a reported burglary attempt.

The railroad officers surprised a group of youngsters trying to steal some copper wire. They drove away in an automobile, leaving the one boy inside a fenced inclosure. The youth scaled the fence and refused to stop when Sgt. Walter McCauley ordered him to halt.

The boy managed to escape but about 15 minutes he was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital by a relative with a wound of the stomach.

The McClain boy was hit in the side by the shot fired by Michael. Two companions, 14 and 13, were run down and captured.

Michael and Patrolman Joseph Stransky were investigating a report that a car had been stolen from a parking lot. They sped to the scene and blocked the alleyway. The boys leaped out, and ignored a warning to halt.

Stransky fired a warning shot in the air, and Michael fired twice. The McClain boy stopped following the shooting and was grabbed by Stransky, who was unaware the youngster had been wounded.

The boy was pronounced dead at nearby Mercy Hospital.

Michael was suspended from duty pending an investigation.

Hurts Back When Tossed On Bed, Wife Gets Divorce

BALTIMORE, April 20 (AP)—Mrs. Marie Catherine Wilson, 27, won a divorce today after testifying her husband once told her she didn't know how to go to bed, tossed her on a bed and she injured her back on a tugboat anchor he'd put under the covers.

She said Edward Anthony Wilson used to call her "an old crab that couldn't take a joke."

Chief Judge Emory H. Niles, in granting the absolute divorce on grounds of abandonment, gave Mrs. Wilson custody of her 18-month-old daughter and charged Wilson with the child's support.

Mrs. Wilson said she and Wilson, a tugboat worker, were married June 7, 1953 and finally separated last Dec. 26 after he hit her.

Two Persons Die In Auto Mishaps

[By The Associated Press]

Two persons have been killed in Maryland automobile accidents while a youth was a victim of injuries suffered in a New Year's eve crash.

William Gilmor, 69, was struck and killed by a taxicab while crossing Belair road in Baltimore Thursday night.

Paul Spencer Bishop, 18, of near Havre de Grace, was killed early yesterday when his car collided with a truck near Havre de Grace. The force of the collision pushed Bishop, a Negro, into the back seat of his car.

Rex B. McDonald, 18, of Washington, died in Prince Georges General Hospital at Cheverly 3½ months after the car he was driving went out of control and hit a tree at Largo. Police said the auto was going 104 m.p.h. Two companions were instantly killed in the New Year's eve accident.

House Committee Okays $51½ Billion Highway Bill

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—The House Public Works Committee put the $51½-billion-dollar highway bill formally on the road today, with a 16-2 vote sending it to the House.

Leaders promptly arranged for Rules Committee clearance of the measure next Tuesday, and said they expect to bring it to the House floor Thursday for two days of debate.

A Public Works Committee spokesman announced today's closed session vote, reportedly taken by a show of hands, which also approved $14,800,000,000 in new highway user taxes to help pay building costs.

The measure by Rep. Fallon (D-Md.) is a major legislative item of the present Congress. House Democratic leaders are strongly behind it. The Eisenhower administration has not endorsed it in detail, but administration spokesmen have asked for a bigger highway spending program and approved the idea of the new taxes.

Thus changes of House passage this year are regarded as much brighter than last, when rival Republican and Democratic bills were junked in a row over financing. However, a number of secondary provisions are expected to be attacked on the House floor.

The Senate already has passed a less comprehensive bill.

As reported by the Public Works Committee, the Fallon bill provides for a 51½-billion-dollar construction program over the next 13 years, 1957-69. The federal government would put up 37½ billion dollars and the states would supply the rest.

The biggest chunk would be $24,825,000,000 federal and $2,758,000,000 state spending to complete a 40,000-mile interstate superhighway system.

The regular federal aid to primary and secondary roads would also undergo a big stepup, to be matched 50-50 by the states.

On the tax side, the Fallon bill earmarks 38½ billion dollars worth of highway user taxes over a 16-year period for road construction, including $23,700,000,000 from existing taxes and $14,800,000,000 from new and increased levies.

The federal gasoline tax would go up a penny a gallon, from 2 to 3 cents. Other taxes would hit mainly trucks and buses.

The tax proposals have been approved by the House Ways and Means Committee, which must originate revenue measures.

OCEAN CITY, Md., April 20 (AP)—Ocean City plans to get direct, teletyped weather reports from the U. S. Weather Bureau this summer so it can provide up-to-the-minute storm and hurricane warnings to visitors at the resorts.

The plan was developed after a conference this week with H. L. Alkire of the weather bureau at Friendship International Airport near Baltimore.

Last summer, some resort officials complained "premature" hurricane warnings sent vacationers homeward and caused needless economic loss to the area.

No War Seen By McKeldin

BUFFALO, N.Y., April 20 (AP)—There "just is not going to be a war in the Middle East," Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland said today.

McKeldin, at a news conference and in a speech before the Temple Beth Zion Men's Club, said the cease-fire agreement announced yesterday "was a help, but it is only the beginning."

The Republican governor said the Eisenhower administration's "sympathy" was with Israel, and nothing could happen to that country "without the full force of America being in there supporting her."

McKeldin said the first step toward restoring real peace was to define the boundaries of Israel and her neighbors", and then they "must sit down and work out a permanent treaty instead of this temporary armistice."

McKeldin scored the sale of arms to Israel's enemies while she "is denied any comparable arms for defense." He added it was the free world's obligation to "foil this mischief," especially of Soviet bloc arms deliveries to Egypt.

Hurts Back When Tossed On Bed, Wife Gets Divorce

BALTIMORE, April 20 (AP)—Mrs. Marie Catherine Wilson, 27, won a divorce today after testifying her husband once told her she didn't know how to go to bed, tossed her on a bed and she injured her back on a tugboat anchor he'd put under the covers.

She said Edward Anthony Wilson used to call her "an old crab that couldn't take a joke."

Chief Judge Emory H. Niles, in granting the absolute divorce on grounds of abandonment, gave Mrs. Wilson custody of her 18-month-old daughter and charged Wilson with the child's support.

Mrs. Wilson said she and Wilson, a tugboat worker, were married June 7, 1953 and finally separated last Dec. 26 after he hit her.

Two Persons Die In Auto Mishaps

(By The Associated Press)

Two persons have been killed in Maryland automobile accidents while a youth was a victim of injuries suffered in a New Year's eve crash.

William Gilmore, 69, was struck and killed by a taxicab while crossing Belair road in Baltimore Thursday night.

Paul Spencer Bishop, 18, of near Havre de Grace, was killed early yesterday when his car collided with a truck near Havre de Grace. The force of the collision pushed Bishop, a Negro, into the back seat of his car.

Rex B. McDonald, 18, of Washington, died in Prince Georges General Hospital at Cheverly 3½ months after the car he was driving went out of control and hit a tree at Largo. Police said the auto was going 104 m.p.h. Two companions were instantly killed in the New Year's eve accident.

House Committee Okays $51½ Billion Highway Bill

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—The House Public Works Committee put the $51½-billion-dollar highway bill formally on the road today, with a 16-2 vote sending it to the House.

Leaders promptly arranged for Rules Committee clearance of the measure next Tuesday, and said they expect to bring it to the House floor Thursday for two days of debate.

A Public Works Committee spokesman announced today's closed session vote, reportedly taken by a show of hands, which also approved $14,800,000,000 in new highway user taxes to help pay building costs.

The measure by Rep. Fallon (D-Md) is a major legislative item of the present Congress. House Democratic leaders are strongly behind it. The Eisenhower administration has not endorsed it in detail, but administration spokesmen have asked for a bigger highway spending program and approved the idea of the new taxes.

Thus changes of House passage this year are regarded as much brighter than last, when rival Republican and Democratic bills were junked in a row over financing. However, a number of secondary provisions are expected to be attacked on the House floor.

The Senate already has passed a less comprehensive bill.

As reported by the Public Works Committee, the Fallon bill provides for a $51½-billion-dollar construction program over the next 13 years, 1957-69. The federal government would put up 37½ billion dollars and the states would supply the rest.

The biggest chunk would be $24,825,000,000 federal and $2,758,000,000 state spending to complete a 40,000-mile interstate superhighway system.

The regular federal aid to primary and secondary roads would also undergo a big step, to be matched 50-50 by the states.

On the tax side, the Fallon bill earmarks 38½ billion dollars worth of highway user taxes over a 16-year period for road construction, including $23,700,000,000 from existing taxes and $14,800,000,000 from new and increased levies.

The federal gasoline tax would go up a penny a gallon, from 2 to 3 cents. Other taxes would hit mainly trucks and buses.

The tax proposals have been approved by the House Ways and Means Committee, which must originate revenue measures.

No War Seen By McKeldin

BUFFALO, N.Y., April 20 (AP)—There "just is not going to be a war in the Middle East," Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland said today.

McKeldin, at a news conference and in a speech before the Temple Beth Zion Men's Club, said the cease-fire agreement announced yesterday "was a help, but it is only the beginning."

The Republican governor said the Eisenhower administration's "sympathy" was with Israel, and nothing could happen to that country "without the full force of America being in there supporting her."

McKeldin said the first step toward restoring real peace was to define the boundaries of Israel and her neighbors, and then they "must sit down and work out a permanent treaty instead of this temporary armistice."

McKeldin scored the sale of arms to Israel's enemies while she "is denied any comparable arms for defense." He added it was the free world's obligation to "foil this mischief," especially of Soviet bloc arms deliveries to Egypt.

SANCTUARY

The sun makes golden patterns across the tiled floor, and there seems something ageless and of wondrous beauty in the vaulted arches of solid stone. Here there is sanctuary, freedom, at least temporarily, from the worries of the outer world.

In every great life, there have been times of reflection and meditation. There have been moments of solitude to renew a flagging spirit with the infinite power of God, to find an inner peace which comes from another world.

In every life, there are times when sanctuary is needed. There are moments when the quiet witness of the Holy House is more eloquent than all the words in the world.

Often a step into the shadowed quiet of a church brings a resurgence of faith and courage that sets life on a new and greater course. This is the miracle of sanctuary—a miracle that can happen TO YOU!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

SANCTUARY

The sun makes golden patterns across the tiled floor, and there seems something ageless and of wondrous beauty in the vaulted arches of solid stone. Here there is sanctuary, freedom, at least temporarily, from the worries of the outer world.

In every great life, there have been times of reflection and meditation. There have been moments of solitude to renew a flagging spirit with the infinite power of God, to find an inner peace which comes from another world.

In every life, there are times when sanctuary is needed. There are moments when the quiet witness of the Holy House is more eloquent than all the words in the world.

Often a step into the shadowed quiet of a church brings a resurgence of faith and courage that sets life on a new and greater course. This is the miracle of sanctuary—a miracle that can happen TO YOU!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Tractor Company Gets National Award

KEYSER — John F. Somerville Jr., president of the Tiger Tractor Corporation, announced yesterday that his firm has received an award for product design improvement from the National Steel Founders' Society, the trade association composed of leading steel and iron foundries in the United States.

The Tiger Tractor corporation was given "National Honorable mention" in a contest sponsored throughout the United States. It was a surprise to company officials as they had not known that their product design program had been submitted in the competition. A sub-contractor supplier, the Mountain State Steel Foundries, Parkersburg, entered the Tiger series of eight design improvements consisting of steel castings improving the production, strength and appearance of Tiger tractors.

Tiger Tractor Corporation of Keyser, manufactures five different models of riding garden tractors with horsepower range of from three to eight horsepower. These castings are utilized in the production of the tractors.

Following is the national award "for outstanding and dramatic technical improvement in the design and manufacture of farm tractors in employment of steel castings increasing production, lowering cost and improving appearances of the product."

As further recognition of Tiger Tractor Corporation, the Steel Founders' Society published a brochure showing photographs of the two models of Tiger Tractors, together with the castings which won in the national competition contest.

Garrett Adopts Daylight Time

OAKLAND—The Garrett County Commissioners have decreed Daylight Saving Time for the county this year, beginning April 29 at 2 a. m. and continuing through the last Sunday in September.

It was pointed out in the resolution that the Board of Education had requested DST and that if such time was not adopted considerable difficulty would be encountered by the citizens of the county since many municipalities had adopted DST. The commissioners declared that it would be advantageous for the county to operate on the same time as the various other municipalities so that all might operate on the same time.

It was announced earlier this week by the municipality of Mt. Lake Park that it would operate on DST. Last week Oakland decided to operate on fast time. Other communities of the same mind include Crellin, Grantsville and Bloomington.

The motion to operate on fast time was made by Ervin Roth and seconded by H. D. Swartzentruber. Aubrey Brenneman opposed the motion, citing the great majority of Farm Bureau members who had publicly spoken against the change.

A Retiring General And His Successor

With no wars to speed his promotion, Alfred M. Gruenther remained an Army lieutenant for 16½ years, wondering from time to time why more generals didn't retire. Today, a four-star general and supreme commander of NATO, he has the same philosophy.

He is retiring at the age of 57 and he expresses the view that about three years is as long as any man should remain as supreme commander—otherwise there is danger of "stagnation." He adds that Gen. Lauris Norstad, who will succeed him, is an "ideal choice, better than I was."

These remarks are characteristic of the man who has served with the utmost distinction and remarkable humility, never indulging in self-glorification or seeking publicity for himself. Most Americans, assuming that they would recognize his name, could hardly identify his photograph. They have thought of General Gruenther as a man holding an important job and presumably doing it adequately.

Gruenther has shown enormous vitality and a remarkable sense of balance—two qualities less often teamed than they should be. He has proved himself a brilliant strategist and organizer and an expert at public relations. And these aptitudes are an innate part of his personal character. Because of them, he should do well in whatever he undertakes.

General Norstad, the air-minded philosopher-in-uniform who succeeds him, has been called one of the world's keenest strategic minds and "a precision instrument." In his new post he will need the qualities of a soldier-statesman. The change comes at a good time. NATO must now undergo changes which may well be easier for a new man to introduce. The withdrawal of French NATO forces to North Africa, the prospect of incorporating German units, Russia's "new look," and the impending shift to greater emphasis on the economic and perhaps the political aspects of NATO—all these call for changes of policy that will perhaps be easier for a new broom to effect.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

On Second Thought

Everybody but a misogynist adores the romance of youth, is intrigued by the searching shenanigans of the middle-aged, and is startled by June and December associations particularly when they are allied to diamonds and milk.

What stirred such excitement over the Kelly-Grimaldi marriage is not so easy to discover because it fits no particular category. Nevertheless, it did stir the imagination and one journalist wrote of Grace Kelly outranking her mother which is quite impossible because in the United States no one outranks anyone else and in moral law, no child ever outranks a parent. It would seem that as photographers lost cameras and guests lost jewels, some reporters lost their sense of proportion. Some extreme statements were made by those who felt impelled to treat a sacrament as though it were an opening night in Hollywood.

I am not a little surprised that Prince Rainier III was irate and issued orders against the photographers whose lust for pictures created traffic jams where there was no traffic. The reports generally blamed the French photographers for misconduct but the fellow who told Grace that he was being treated like a bum must have been an American. The theft of Mrs. McCloskey's jewels was bad enough, although they were, it is reported, insured and therefore the Prince is under no obligation to make good. The McCloskeys are Irish from Philadelphia and Democrats and of the people, for the people and by the people, which is the symbol of current democracy, particularly in Philadelphia which having long lived under Republican corruption is now Democratic and no different from what it was before.

Too bad about the jewelry but thus far no mink coats have been reported stolen, but maybe I am a little premature as I was about Farouk staying away. The correspondents, we are told, stole views of hand-squeezing and such by means of binoculars and telescopes. Up on my farm in Massachusetts, which is about 10 acres smaller than the entire free state of Monaco, it would not be possible to view from the distance any such goings-on because of the trees, which are so thick the state forester advises thinning them out and earning a buck thereby. Rainier might consider tree planting as a way of life. Also, it is said, that the wedding cost something like $600,000 which is a pretty high price to pay for such an enterprise.

And now that everybody is married that ought to be and the guests are departing for their various destinations, it is somewhat puzzling why Farouk, at the last moment, decided to come. He was invited, but why, no one could say. Farouk takes up too much space in an already overcrowded world. Certainly, he is too big for Monaco, where everything must be done to scale, Monaco being even smaller than San Marino. But what about Liechtenstein? How small is that free and independent state which is now becoming important as a tax evasion center for corporations that engage in raiding American companies? This is done in combination with Swiss banks which keep their accounts by numbers and refuse to tell who owns the numbers. Therefore, it is a good way to cover up hot money if you have any. Monaco is also in that business and I understand that firms of this kind that used to operate out of Tangier are now planning to move to Monaco. If Rainier soaks such firms 10 per cent on their gross, he can tell the gambling house to move to Greece. It might also be a good business for Cyprus.

There are about 11 countries that engage in this kind of operation, including Canada, and it is good to know about it because somebody needs to know how to handle things and apparently these uncommercial, anti-materialistic people do and they make profits thereby.

Well, it was a great gala and a good time was had by all and now that it is all over, we can return to our wars and politics and all the absurdities with which we regale ourselves when there is nothing more important like a medieval wedding or a tenor's inability to get rid of fat.

Ike's Talk To GOP Shows He's In Fighting Mood

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower is in a fighting mood, a crusading mood. He is not taking for granted victory in the November election. That's why he delivered such a stimulating address to the meeting of state chairmen and party leaders sponsored by the Republican National Committee.

For when Leonard Hall, national chairman, arranged the meeting, he did not know whether the President would do more than greet those present. To the surprise of Mr. Hall, the President asked for time in which to deliver an address.

Emphasized "Principles"

This speech, coming as it did immediately after the President's veto message on the farm bill, endeavored to convert into a strength what had seemed to some observers a weakness on the farm issue. Mr. Eisenhower focused attention on "principles." He said: "The campaign is concerned with principles because they provide the only sound base for policies and practices. Policies not based on principle retreat to expediency. They become—as we have seen them become in the past—surrenders to pressure, bribes for support, escapes from responsibilities. Because expediency is a betrayal of America's trust, the Republican party in this campaign must be vigorous and dedicated and inspired by principles, by political integrity."

The President undoubtedly was thinking of the pressure upon him recently to sign a farm bill that he felt was unsound and thus to give way to expediency. Many people are saying now that the President's act of courage will win him votes even in the farm states. Certainly many of the Republican members of the House of Representatives who originally voted for the bill switched when it came to a vote on overriding the veto. Only 20 Republicans who had previously voted for the bill did so again, which means that 28 Republicans changed their vote so as to be recorded finally on the President's side.

Since the vote showed that the bill itself failed to get a majority of the House, let alone the necessary two-thirds, the President's leadership appears to have gained ground in Congress. Even three Democrats who had voted for it before deserted the bill on final passage.

Leadership Gains Ground

Unquestionably the farm bill has been one of the biggest hurdles the President has had to face. Today some of the Democrats are criticizing their own leadership for forcing a vote to attempt to override the veto because it appears now that the House, though controlled by the Democratic party, supported the veto message. It certainly means that the House will have to do something soon about the President's request for a "soil bank" bill.

Most significant of the week's developments on the political front was the forthright way in which Mr. Eisenhower identified himself with the Republican party. He stated unequivocally his pride in being a Republican. He outlined principles for his party which he hopes will appeal to Democrats as well as to Republicans. Mr. Eisenhower's eight principles are expressed in the following key sentences:

1. "The individual is of supreme importance."
2. "The spirit of our people is the strength of our nation."
3. "America does not prosper unless all Americans prosper."

Government Needs Heart

4. "Government must have a heart as well as a head."
5. "Courage in principle, cooperation in practice make freedom positive."
6. "The purpose of government is to serve, never to dominate."
7. "To stay free, we must stay strong."
8. "Under God, we espouse the cause of freedom and justice and peace for all peoples."

So it looks as if the Republican national campaign has begun and that it will be built on the slogan of "peace and prosperity" underlined by principle in government."

Good Dental Care In Childhood Should Be A 'Must'

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

If my parents had taken better care of my teeth when I was a youngster, I wouldn't have so much trouble today. This popular lament is justified. When good oral hygiene and periodic visits to the dentist are routine during the formative years, the later discomfort and expense associated with the repair of most dental defects would be avoided.

Some adults think that care of the first teeth is unnecessary because they will fall out anyway. This set must be given proper care because it acts as a guide for the replacement forming beneath. If one or more of the deciduous teeth is lost prematurely or becomes badly decayed, the permanent successors may come in crooked.

Parents must lay down the law because the small fry are forgetful and often dodge the drudgery of keeping the mouth clean, but much can be accomplished by persevering and making a game of brushing. As soon as the full set of first teeth have erupted (20-30 months) the tot should be taken for a complete dental examination.

Mom and dad ought to select a dentist who takes an interest in children as this first trip can be the start or finish of a good little patient. Fear should not be instilled into the toddler's mind. Teach him that the dentist is his friend and do not discuss a visit to the dental office in an unfavorable light.

Teeth should be brushed regularly and thoroughly, after eating if possible, as decay begins on the outer surface of teeth, not from within. Caries is caused by bacterial action on food particles that collect in the crevices between the teeth or in pits or fissures of the biting surfaces.

Cleansing the mouth after dinner assures reasonably clean teeth for eight to 12 hours. A small toothbrush is preferred and occasionally the youngster is more impressed when the dentist demonstrates how it should be employed.

To remove larger particles, the uppers are brushed downward and the lowers with an upward stroke. But for real cleansing, a vibrating massaging motion cleans best.

Do not overlook the inside and the chewing surfaces. Rinsing the mouth with water after brushing helps wash away loose particles.

CHOKING AT TABLE

Mrs. H. writes: I get frequent choking spells at the table, after I start eating. My doctor gave me all kinds of tests and found nothing wrong. Could these attacks be due to nervousness?

REPLY

Yes, provided the examination was thorough and included a peek inside with the laryngoscope.

DROOPING LID

Mrs. D. writes: My baby was born with ptosis of one eyelid. Can this be cured 100 per cent by operation?

REPLY

Surgery offers the best chance for cure. Although results may be 100 per cent, they come closer with operation than from any other form of treatment.

ANXIETY ABOUT TUMOR

J. L. writes: Can a person get psychoneurosis with a tumor of the brain?

REPLY

Many individuals become nervous or psychoneurotic when they develop a disease, including brain tumor. This is particularly true if they are worried about the outcome.

KONKED OUT

Mrs. D. writes: What on earth could cause by 17-year-old husky, healthy, 6 foot 2 son to pass out while stretching? He tells me he always gets dizzy when he stretches but today he went out like a light.

REPLY

Thorough examination would be necessary to determine the cause. I recently saw a patient who had this trouble. The only abnormality we could find was an overly sensitive nerve center in the neck (carotid sinus). Apparently whenever he stretched, the center was pressed upon and the stimulation made him feel faint. We advised him to stop stretching, which had become more or less of a habit.

IMMUNITY AND RESISTANCE

J. A. N. writes: What are the chances that a healthy person will develop tuberculosis after contact?

REPLY

The chances are greater if resistance is low and susceptibility is high. No one has been able to determine whether the odds are even, one to 10, or one to 100.

"MATTER" IN THE EYES

C. R. writes: What causes pus to collect in the corners of the eyes? I have to wipe it out several times a day.

REPLY

A low grade infection (conjunctivitis) combined with poor drainage of the tear ducts usually is responsible.

TABLE

L. D. writes: Is it true that clams and oysters are aphrodisiacs?

REPLY

No, but their reputation along this line may help psychologically.

TENDER FINGERTIPS

C. T. writes: The sense of touch at the ends of my fingers seems to be impaired and the tips are tender. What could be responsible for this condition?

REPLY

There are a variety of neurological disorders that lead to changes in sensation at the ends of the fingers. Included in the list are neuritis, multiple sclerosis, ataxia, and degeneration of the spinal cord. Other origins are anemia, arthritis, and the menopause.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Ex-Governor Dewey Is Still Chief Cabinet-Maker For Eisenhower

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — One interesting fact about the Dewey crowd is that they never give up. If they don't succeed the first time, they try, try again.

Witness the backstage maneuvering of the ex-governor of New York and his close friend, Elliott V. Bell, to put the latter in the next Eisenhower cabinet — if there is one.

Bell, now editor and publisher of Business Week, had one of the greatest disappointments of his life — second only to Dewey's — when Dewey found that he wasn't elected president in 1948. Bell had been the chief architect of the "don't rock the boat, play it safe, we are in, don't attack Truman" campaign strategy; and he has never forgiven himself for that error.

Burning in his breast has been the desire for vindication. He has seen other Dewey friends running the Ike administration — Brownell, Dulles, Mitchell, McKay, Nixon, all owing their jobs to Dewey — and Bell has wanted to be there too.

However, Eisenhower hasn't particularly cottoned to the economic genius who steered New York finances when Dewey was governor. So a quiet campaign has been started to maneuver Bell into a spot in the next Eisenhower cabinet — as secretary of the treasury.

This was behind an inconspicuous press handout issued by the State Department announcing that "four prominent citizens have accepted the invitation of Secretary Dulles to serve as advisers" at the multi-lateral tariff conference in Geneva.

Heading the list, followed by quite a biographical buildup, was the name of Elliott V. Bell.

How Cabinet Is Picked

This announcement was by no means spontaneous. Quite a bit of maneuvering was behind it, including a meeting between Dewey, Bell, and Gabriel Hauge, the economic adviser to the White House. Hauge was told to line up an overseas assignment for Bell — something hard and without glamour so that a pitch could be made to Ike later that Bell had done his share and deserved a reward.

Hauge was told to help. He got busy. He used to work for Bell. John Foster Dulles was also told to line up a foreign assignment for Bell. Result: adviser on multilateral tariff problems in Geneva.

Meanwhile, to prepare for this cram course to join the next Eisenhower cabinet, Bell brought an "associate publisher" in to handle Business Week — Bayard E. Sawyer. A special title was even created for him.

Thus, the cabinet buildup for Elliott V. Bell was duly launched.

Dewey and Bell figure various cabinet changes will take place in Ike's second term. And Bell has told friends that the cabinet in the second Eisenhower administration will be even more powerful, since Ike will delegate more power than ever.

NOTE—Bell's magazine has been strongly pro-Eisenhower. He even relieved Murray Rossant, the one lone Democrat who had replaced Gabriel Hauge. Today the editorial page is supervised by Dewey's old labor aide, Mel Pitzele, the man who brought James Mitchell, now secretary of labor to Dewey's attention. Pitzele, now promoted to "senior editor," is in a position to produce editorially for Ike and for the man who wants to be Ike's next secretary of the treasury.

Jets For Washington

The armed forces are running into increasing trouble with the increasing population of the U. S., in locating air bases. Latest problem is that of locating a modern jet Navy airfield which threatens to blast suburban Washington out of their beds at night.

Construction of the field has been O.K'd by the House Armed Services Committee. But though the Navy won't talk, the base is slated for Davidsonville, midway between Washington and Annapolis, which has brought a howl of anguish from homeowners in that area.

The Navy plans to take over 5,000 acres of land around Davidsonville, which residents claim would blight at least 100 square miles of valuable residential, farming, and seashore areas in Anne Arundel and Prince Georges counties.

The Navy frankly admits that the area is becoming densely populated.

"The countryside in the general vicinity of the Naval Academy is undergoing rapid development," conceded Admiral Walter F. Boone, former commandant of the academy.

This growing concentration of population didn't worry Admiral Boone, however. On the contrary, he viewed it as just an added reason "for the procurement of the land for an airfield at the earliest possible date."

By contrast, a wholly different position has been taken by the Navy's top-ranking air admiral, Vice Admiral T. S. Combs, who wants jet bases kept away from densely populated cities.

Testified Admiral Combs before the House Armed Services Committee:

"The airplanes that we have coming along right now, the very fast ones, are terrifically noisy. They have afterburners on them and those afterburners at low altitudes really are unbearable."

As a result, Admiral Combs asked for funds to move Navy jets away from San Francisco—though his colleague, Admiral Boone, wants to move them closer to Washington.

The Navy claims that the field at Davidsonville is needed to familiarize midshipmen at Annapolis with aircraft. However, no battleships or carriers are needed at Annapolis to "familiarize" midshipmen with ships. When asked by this column about this contradiction, the Navy replied: "No comment." The same answer was given when this column asked if the Davidsonville site had CAA approval, in view of possible threats to commercial air traffic.

NOTE — Residents of Davidsonville allege that the real reason for locating the field in their backyard is the desire of Pentagon officers for a near-by airfield at which they can conveniently keep up their flying station.

The Hill Difficulty

By Brother Barnabas

In John Bunyan's immortal allegory "Pilgrim's Progress," Christian, in his pilgrimage to the Celestial City, encounters many obstacles and impediments in the way, among them the "Hill Difficulty."

Practically everybody meets an obstacle, or impediment in life tantamount to Bunyan's Hill Difficulty, which he may clamber over, tunnel through, go around or meet head-on.

It may be domestic infelicity, physical handicap, financial privation, mental insufficiency, or what have you.

A seminary professor's six-year-old confessed: "I don't know anything, I'm plain dumb, all I know is a little bit of theology." She'll live it down.

A Way Out

Lillian Roth, a singer who was the toast of Broadway and Hollywood, hit the skids and went the limit, but by the grace of God came back with this gem: "No matter how shameful, degrading and hopeless life has become, there is a way out."

Never put off till tomorrow what you should have done day before yesterday, then you will never sing out of the depths of Lillian's life Susan Hayward's threnody:

"I'll cry tomorrow when I know it's good-bye, I'll cry tomorrow, but tonight who could cry? Who could cry to a heart that's full of spring, They've written a blue song for us to sing."

Teddy Roosevelt, who conquered stammering, said: "Don't flinch, don't foul, hit the line hard."

One hill of difficulty common to most of us is how to make ends meet, how to balance the budget. We are permitted to get all we can but not can all we get.

By the time our gross income is drained off by the butcher, the baker and the candlestick-maker, and the government takes its divvy, we are so impoverished that Brother Jonathan out of sheer pity, if not conscience, gives back from our impounded revenues enough to keep soul and body together, in the form of subsidies, pensions, social securities.

All-Embodying Platform

When I announce for Congress my platform will be to help everybody who is in a plight:

The farmer who is squeezed between overproduction and underconsumption, so that when he markets his products his take-home-pay is not enough to buy his coffee, sugar and terbacker, much less contribute to the campaign fund, would have my support.

I would favor banks — a jail bank for the farmer who would exercise birth control over his land.

The blood bank for the Red Cross. My type used to be "Type 4 Moss"—a universal. Under the new fangled system it would be "Mossback."

The bank of goodwill is for all who are as honest as the days are long, which may be a hardship when the days become an hour longer on April 29, so keep your fingers crossed.

All of these precautions are for a rainy day. The Bible (Luke 16:1-9) tells how one man built up a bank of goodwill and what came of it.

I would favor supports for all and sundry, but would not insist that a man walk with crutches if he can get along with a cane.

The utilities would be entitled to adequate support, but I would provide arch supports for all pedestrians whose dollars are not elastic enough to cover the follies of mismanagement, including the mistakes of "do-it-yourself" faddists who do not read the instructions before proceeding with the bathroom plumbing repairs.

Time For Light

Now that the Monagasque pandjandrum is on a quiet sea, and Margaret Truman is passing out of circulation, we can come down out of the clouds of romance and attend to our own practical difficulties nearer home, such as whom shall we marry, when, how many children shall we have, and what shall we give them to eat, and especially to drink, so they won't have rabies or their teeth fall out.

Now that we are "on the brink" of fluoridizing our city water it is time for light rather than heat in our discussions pro and con.

In the interest of clarifying rather than confounding the situation, this lucubator would suggest fairness and impartiality to all parties concerned.

Save the teeth with fluorides, and you will put the exodontists out of business. Put pilocarpine in the water to prevent glaucoma and idle the oculist.

Treat everybody for cholesterolemia by putting sitosterols in the water and so reducing hardening of the arteries.

A liberal supply of the milk of human kindness, by whatever method administered, will do more to melt down antipathies and hills of difficulty than atom bombs, of which there are three kinds, big, bigger, and where has everybody gone, so opines,

A Retiring General And His Successor

With no wars to speed his promotion, Alfred M. Gruenther remained an Army lieutenant for 16½ years, wondering from time to time why more generals didn't retire. Today, a four-star general and supreme commander of NATO, he has the same philosophy.

He is retiring at the age of 57 and he expresses the view that about three years is as long as any man should remain as supreme commander—otherwise there is danger of "stagnation." He adds that Gen. Lauris Norstad, who will succeed him, is an "ideal choice, better than I was."

These remarks are characteristic of the man who has served with the utmost distinction and remarkable humility, never indulging in self-glorification or seeking publicity for himself. Most Americans, assuming that they would recognize his name, could hardly identify his photograph. They have thought of General Gruenther as a man holding an important job and presumably doing it adequately.

Gruenther has shown enormous vitality and a remarkable sense of balance—two qualities less often teamed than they should be. He has proved himself a brilliant strategist and organizer and an expert at public relations. And these aptitudes are an innate part of his personal character. Because of them, he should do well in whatever he undertakes.

General Norstad, the air-minded philosopher-in-uniform who succeeds him, has been called one of the world's keenest strategic minds and "a precision instrument." In his new post he will need the qualities of a soldier-statesman. The change comes at a good time. NATO must now undergo changes which may well be easier for a new man to introduce. The withdrawal of French NATO forces to North Africa, the prospect of incorporating German units, Russia's "new look," and the impending shift to greater emphasis on the economic and perhaps the political aspects of NATO—all these call for changes of policy that will perhaps be easier for a new broom to effect.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

On Second Thought

Everybody but a misogynist adores the romance of youth, is intrigued by the searching shenanigans of the middle-aged, and is startled by June and December associations particularly when they are allied to diamonds and mink.

What stirred such excitement over the Kelly-Grimaldi marriage is not so easy to discover because it fits no particular category. Nevertheless, it did stir the imagination and one journalist wrote of Grace Kelly outranking her mother which is quite impossible because in the United States no one outranks anyone else and in moral law, no child ever outranks a parent. It would seem that as photographers lost cameras and guests lost jewels, some reporters lost their sense of proportion. Some extreme statements were made by those who felt impelled to treat a sacrament as though it were an opening night in Hollywood.

I am not a little surprised that Prince Rainier III was irate and issued orders against the photographers whose lust for pictures created traffic jams where there was no traffic. The reports generally blamed the French photographers for misconduct but the fellow who told Grace that he was being treated like a bum must have been an American. The theft of Mrs. McCloskey's jewels was bad enough, although they were, it is reported, insured and therefore the Prince is under no obligation to make good. The McCloskeys are Irish from Philadelphia and Democrats and of the people, for the people and by the people, which is the symbol of current democracy, particularly in Philadelphia which having long lived under Republican corruption is now Democratic and no different from what it was before.

Too bad about the jewelry but thus far no mink coats have been reported stolen, but maybe I am a little premature as I was about Farouk staying away. The correspondents, we are told, stole views of hand-squeezing and such by means of binoculars and telescopes. Up on my farm in Massachusetts, which is about 10 acres smaller than the entire free state of Monaco, it would not be possible to view from the distance any such goings-on because of the trees, which are so thick the state forester advises thinning them out and earning a buck thereby. Rainier might consider tree planting as a way of life. Also, it is said, that the wedding cost something like $600,000 which is a pretty high price to pay for such an enterprise.

And now that everybody is married that ought to be and the guests are departing for their various destinations, it is somewhat puzzling why Farouk, at the last moment, decided to come. He was invited, but why, no one could say. Farouk takes up too much space in an already overcrowded world. Certainly, he is too big for Monaco, where everything must be done to scale, Monaco being even smaller than San Marino. But what about Liechtenstein? How small is that free and independent state which is now becoming important as a tax evasion center for corporations that engage in raiding American companies? This is done in combination with Swiss banks which keep their accounts by numbers and refuse to tell who owns the numbers. Therefore, it is a good way to cover up hot money if you have any. Monaco is also in that business and I understand that firms of this kind that used to operate out of Tangier are now planning to move to Monaco. If Rainier soaks such firms 10 per cent on their gross, he can tell the gambling house to move to Greece. It might also be a good business for Cyprus.

There are about 11 countries that engage in this kind of operation, including Canada, and it is good to know about it because somebody needs to know how to handle things and apparently these uncommercial, anti-materialistic people do and they make profits thereby.

Well, it was a great gala and a good time was had by all and now that it is all over, we can return to our wars and politics and all the absurdities with which we regale ourselves when there is nothing more important like a medieval wedding or a tenor's inability to get rid of fat.

Ike's Talk To GOP Shows He's In Fighting Mood

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower is in a fighting mood, a crusading mood. He is not taking for granted victory in the November election. That's why he delivered such a stimulating address to the meeting of state chairmen and party leaders sponsored by the Republican National Committee.

For when Leonard Hall, national chairman, arranged the meeting, he did not know whether the President would do more than greet those present. To the surprise of Mr. Hall, the President asked for time in which to deliver an address.

Emphasized "Principles"

This speech, coming as it did immediately after the President's veto message on the farm bill, endeavored to convert into a strength what had seemed to some observers a weakness on the farm issue. Dewey and Bell figure various cabinet changes will take place in Ike's second term. And Bell has told friends that the cabinet in the second Eisenhower administration will be even more powerful, since Ike will delegate more power than ever.

NOTE—Bell's magazine has been strongly pro-Eisenhower. He even relieved Murray Rossant, the one lone Democrat who had replaced Gabriel Hauge. Today the editorial page is supervised by Dewey's old labor aide, Mel Pitzele, the man who brought James Mitchell, now secretary of labor to Dewey's attention. Pitzele, now promoted to "senior editor," is in a position to produce editorially for Ike and for the man who wants to be Ike's next secretary of the treasury.

Jets For Washington

The armed forces are running into increasing trouble with the increasing population of the U. S., in locating air bases. Latest problem is that of locating a modern jet Navy airfield which threatens to blast suburban Washington out of their beds at night.

Construction of the field has been OK'd by the House Armed Services Committee. But though the Navy won't talk, the base is slated for Davidsonville, midway between Washington and Annapolis.

lis, which has brought a howl of anguish from homeowners in that area.

The Navy plans to take over 5,000 acres of land around Davidsonville, which residents claim would blight at least 100 square miles of valuable residential, farming, and seashore areas in Anne Arundel and Prince Georges counties.

The Navy frankly admits that the area is becoming densely populated.

"The countryside in the general vicinity of the Naval Academy is undergoing rapid development," conceded Admiral Walter F. Boone, former commandant of the academy.

This growing concentration of population didn't worry Admiral Boone, however. On the contrary, he viewed it as just an added reason "for the procurement of the land for an airfield at the earliest possible date."

By contrast, a wholly different position has been taken by the Navy's top-ranking air admiral, Vice Admiral T. S. Combs, who wants jet bases kept away from densely populated cities.

Testified Admiral Combs before the House Armed Services Committee:

"The airplanes that we have coming along right now, the very fast ones, are terrifically noisy. They have afterburners on them and those afterburners at low altitudes really are unbearable."

As a result, Admiral Combs asked for funds to move Navy jets away from San Francisco—though his colleague, Admiral Boone, wants to move them closer to Washington.

The Navy claims that the field at Davidsonville is needed to familiarize midshipmen at Annapolis with aircraft. However, no battle-ships or carriers are needed at Annapolis to "familiarize" midshipmen with ships. When asked by this column about this contradiction, the Navy replied: "No comment." The same answer was given when this column asked if the Davidsonville site had CAA approval, in view of possible threats to commercial air traffic.

NOTE—Residents of Davidsonville allege that the real reason for locating the field in their backyard is the desire of Pentagon officers for a near-by airfield at which they can conveniently keep up their flying status.

The Hill Difficulty

By Brother Barnabas

In John Bunyan's immortal allegory "Pilgrim's Progress," Christian, in his pilgrimage to the Celestial City, encounters many obstacles and impediments in the way, among them the "Hill Difficulty."

Practically everybody meets an obstacle, or impediment in life tantamount to Bunyan's Hill Difficulty, which he may clamber over, tunnel through, go around or meet head-on.

It may be domestic infelicity, physical handicap, financial privation, mental insufficiency, or what have you.

A seminary professor's six-year-old confessed: "I don't know anything. I'm plain dumb. All I know is a little bit of theology." She'll live it down.

A Way Out

Lillian Roth, a singer who was the toast of Broadway and Hollywood, hit the skids and went the limit, but by the grace of God came back with this gem: "No matter how shameful, degrading and hopeless life has become, there is a way out."

Never put off till tomorrow what you should have done day before yesterday, then you will never sink of the depths of Lillian's life Susan Hayward's threnody:

"I'll cry tomorrow when I know it's good-bye.
I'll cry tomorrow, but tonight who could cry?
Who could say to a heart that's full of spring,
They've written a blue song for us to sing."

Teddy Roosevelt, who conquered stammering, said: "Don't flinch, don't foul, hit the line hard."

One hill of difficulty common to most of us is how to make ends meet, how to balance the budget. We are permitted to get all we can but not can all we get.

By the time our gross income is drained off by the butcher, the baker and the candlestick-maker, and the government takes its divvy, we are so impoverished that Brother Jonathan out of sheer pity, if not conscience, gives back from our impounded revenues enough to keep soul and body together, in the form of subsidies, pensions, social securities.

All-Embodying Platform

When I announce for Congress my platform will be to help everybody who is in a plight:

The farmer who is squeezed between overproduction and underconsumption, so that when he markets his products his take-home pay is not enough to buy his coffee, sugar and terbacker, much less contribute to the campaign fund, would have my support.

I would favor banks—a bill bank for the farmer who would exercise birth control over his land.

The blood bank for the Red Cross. My type used to be "Type 4 Moss"—a universal. Under the new fangled system it would be "Mossback."

The bank of goodwill is for all who are as honest as the days are long, which may be a hardship when the days become an hour longer on April 29, so keep your fingers crossed.

All of these precautions are for a rainy day. The Bible (Luke 16:1-9) tells how one man built up a bank of goodwill and what came of it.

I would favor supports for all and sundry, but would not insist that a man walk with crutches if he can get along with a cane.

The utilities would be entitled to adequate support, but I would provide arch supports for all pedestrians whose dollars are not elastic enough to cover the follies of mismanagement, including the mistakes of "do-it-yourself" fadists who do not read the instructions before proceeding with the bathroom plumbing repairs.

Time For Light

Now that the Monagasque pandjandrum is on a quiet sea, and Margaret Truman is passing out of circulation, we can come down out of the clouds of romance and attend to our own practical difficulties nearer home, such as whom shall we marry, when, how many children shall we have, and what shall we give them to eat, and especially to drink, so they won't have rabies or their teeth fall out.

Now that we are "on the brink" of fluoridizing our city water it is time for light rather than heat in our discussions pro and con.

In the interest of clarifying rather than confounding the situation, this lubricator would suggest fairness and impartiality to all parties concerned.

Save the teeth with fluorides, and you will put the exodontists out of business. Put pilocarpine in the water to prevent glaucoma and idle the oculist.

Treat everybody for cholesterolemia by putting statosterols in the water and so reducing hardening of the arteries.

A liberal supply of the milk of human kindness, by whatever method administered, will do more to melt down antipathies and hills of difficulty than atom bombs, of which there are three kinds, big, bigger, and where has everybody gone, so opines.

Allegany Stops LaSalle, 3-1, Four Tied For Bi-State Lead

Rallying for three runs in the second inning, Allegany High School's Campers cracked LaSalle High School's three-game winning string yesterday at Campobello by the score of 3-1 and threw the Bi-State Baseball Conference race into a four-way tie for first place.

Fort Hill's Sentinels share the top berth in the nine-school circuit with Allegany, LaSalle and Valley High as a result of their 4-0 triumph over the Mt. Savage Indians in a game played yesterday at Fort Hill Field.

Arthur Washington, who hurled Allegany to its initial win over Mt. Savage (4-3) on April 11 gained the decision over Lefty Bill Roberts in yesterday's slab duel on the Sedgwick street field. Roberts had beaten AHS in both games of the 1955 series.

Spill No-Hitter In 7th

Washington had a no-run, no-hit game in his grasp until the final frame when singles by Sheffer and Roberts and a two-base rap by Buzzard prevented a shutout defeat for the Explorers. The Allegany hurler fanned six and issued three bases on balls.

Roberts gave up four hits, and three of them were bunched by the Campers for all their runs in the second stanza. The LaSalle south-paw struck out six and walked three.

Successive doubles by Ronnie Diehl and Eddie Cecil launched the Allegany uprising in the second frame and before the side was retired a walk, Yankelevitz's single, a passed ball, error and two fielder's choices netted two more tallies.

Markley Hurls Shutout

Jesse Markley turned in a two-hit performance and whiffed seven as Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's Fort Hill defending champions blanked Mt. Savage.

Wayne Fleegle hooked up in a duel with Markley and both hurled shutout ball until the fifth inning when Edgar Parsons batted over Fort Hill's first two runs with a timely base hit. In the sixth the Sentinels scored two more runs on Markley's two-base swat. Fleegle fanned four and gave up two passes. Markley and Clarence "Pooch" Lewis shared four of Fort Hill's eight safeties.

Bruce Beats Hyndman

Coach Leonard Ritchie's Bruce High Bulldogs moved into the .500 circle (2-2) when Donnie Wilkinson twirled a one-hitter and struck out eleven as the Westernport team handed the Hyndman High Hornets their third straight setback. The score was 6-1.

Jamison's single in the fourth inning was the only safety yielded by Wilkinson.

Bruce touched Gary Lehman for an even dozen safeties, three of which were credited to Beard, Albert "Butch" Creasy of Bruce belted a 350-foot triple, and a single and on two other occasions he was robbed of hits by sharp fielding on the part of Ranker.

Gilliam Is Batting Star In 5-0 Victory

PITTSBURGH, April 20 (AP)—Roger Craig, the Brooklyn Dodgers' hope of replacing World Series hero and now Navy recruit Johnny Podres, blanked the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-0 today with a sparkling four hitter.

A chilly crowd of 23,357 turned out for the Pirates' home opener and saw Craig pitch 16 straight batters before pinch hitter Danny Kravitz drew a walk in the sixth.

Frank Thomas doubled with two out in the seventh and spoiled what looked like a no-hitter for Craig.

CHICAGO, April 21 (AP)—Sad Sam Jones' four-hit hurling and a six-run first swing the Chicago Cubs to a 12-1 home opener victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs before 13,973 at Wrigley Field today.

Ernie Banks' two-run homer with two out launched the big Cub first and an 18-hit attack on four Redleg hurlers for their initial triumph in three National League starts.

The Cub attack included two homers and six doubles.

Jones, who hurled a no-hitter last May 12, held the Redlegs hitless until the fifth when Roy McMillan banged a clean single to center.

McMillan also collected a single to deep short in the seventh off Jones, who struck out nine and walked four.

Mantle, Ford Star, Yanks Beat Boston

Mickey Bats In Four Runs In 7-1 Contest; Willard Nixon Loser

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP)—Mickey Mantle drove in four runs with his third homer and a bunt single today while Whitey Ford's curve tamed the Boston Red Sox with five hits for a 7-1 victory for the New York Yankees.

A crowd of 17,543 turned out on a chill, bleak afternoon for the first home game of the defending American League champs. A light drizzle held up the start for 13 minutes after the usual ceremonial parade.

Willard Nixon, only pitcher in the league to beat the Yankees four times last season, gave up the first four runs and was charged with the Red Sox's first defeat of the season. Mantle's 350-foot homer with two on in the seventh came off reliever El Delock.

It was the first meeting of the new season between the two clubs that the writers picked to fight it out for the pennant. Boston had won three in a row from Baltimore while the Yanks took two of three from Washington.

Wynn Beats Detroit, 3-1

31,689 See Cleveland Post First Triumph

CLEVELAND, April 20 (AP)—Early Wynn allowed the Detroit Tigers only five scattered hits today in pitching the Cleveland Indians to a 3-1 victory for their first triumph of the season in their home opener before a crowd of 31,689 at Municipal Stadium.

The loss was the Tigers' third straight of the season. They dropped their first two games to the Kansas City Athletics. The Indians had lost their first two starts to the White Sox in Chicago.

Gene Woodling led the Indians' six-hit attack with a home run, his first of the season, into the left field stands with none on in the first inning.

The Indians scored what proved to be the winning run in the fifth inning when Bob Avila singled with two men out, moved to second as Woodling walked and scored on a single by Al Smith, his second of the game.

Fullmer Cops Decision

CLEVELAND, April 20 (AP)—Gene (Cyclone) Fullmer, free-swinging Utah copper miner, won a unanimous 10-round decision tonight over favored Ralph (Tiger) Jones of Yonkers, N.Y., in a slugfests, fast-paced middleweight battle.

Both fighters were marked slightly and dog-tired at the final bell of a bout which saw flurries of hard punches exchanged in every round.

Fullmer weighed 160, Jones 157½.

Gus Triandos' Homer Sinks Senators, 3-2

Clout Clears Left Field Stand; 29,083 At Baltimore Tilt

BALTIMORE, April 20 (AP)—A seventh inning homer by Gus Triandos in his spacious home grounds carried the Baltimore Orioles to a 3-2 triumph today over the Washington Senators and their first victory of the 1956 American League season.

The Triandos clout just cleared the left field stand and came after first baseman Bob Boyd had tripled while the Orioles were trailing 2-1. It was the second home run of the season for Triandos, also a first baseman who caught for the home opener of the Orioles.

The crowd of 29,083 was the smallest at an opening of Baltimore since the Orioles joined the American League three years ago.

Head Man Choice In $50,000 Wood

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP)—Head Man is expected to prove who's boss man tomorrow in the $50,000-added Wood Memorial at Jamaica as nine 3-year-olds meet in the final bid Eastern test before the Kentucky Derby.

Head Man, owned by Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, is to be ridden by Eddie Arcaro, and is listed as the probable 4-to-1 favorite on the strength of his Experimental Handicap victory April 2.

The Wood, over the mile and one eighth route with all starters packing 126 pounds, lists six eligibles for the Derby. The race will be televised (CBS) 4:30-5 p.m., EST.

There are a lot of questions marks in the race although the colt expected to provide Head Man's main opposition is Mrs. Lloyd P. Tate's Jean Baptiste. The Winding Way Farm's Golf Ace, Mrs. Wallace Gilroy's Oh Johnny, the King Ranch's Beam Rider, and Mrs. Anson Bigelow's Nail also must answer some questions. Completing the field will be Joseph Gavegan's High King, the Maine Chance Farm's Gun Shot, and George D. Widener's Tellurian. All but Golf Ace, Tellurian and Oh Johnny are eligible for the Derby.

Foot Injury Keeps Ted Williams Idle

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP)—Ted Williams, Boston's slugging outfielder, has a broken blood vessel in the instep of his right foot and was unable to start in today's game with the New York Yankees in the stadium.

Williams also was unable to play yesterday as the Red Sox closed the season's opening series in their home park. At that time it was believed his injury was only a bruise. The injury is painful but not serious.

The slugger was in uniform for today's game and was available as a pinchhitter.

Allegany High School's track and field team scored its second victory of the season yesterday over the thinslads of Keyser High School in a program of eleven events at Campobello. The score was 65-46.

Coach John R. Shelton's team won six of eleven first places but the Campers swept through the mile run and high jump for their margin of victory.

The individual star of the meet was Keyser's Jimmy Webb, who won the 100 yards dash in 10.5 seconds, the 220 yards dash in 25 seconds and the broad jump with a leap of 19 feet. Webb also ran on Keyser's winning relay team.

Keyser won the 880 yards relay and Allegany copped the mile relay. The 440 yards relay was cancelled.

The Mineral Counties opened their season last week with a 7-1 victory over Fort Hill's Jayvees.

Head Man Choice In $50,000 Wood

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP)—Head Man is expected to prove who's boss man tomorrow in the $50,000-added Wood Memorial at Jamaica as nine 3-year-olds meet in the final big Eastern test before the Kentucky Derby.

Head Man, owned by Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, is to be ridden by Eddie Arcaro, and is listed as the probable 4-5 favorite on the strength of his Experimental Handicap victory April 2.

The Wood, over the mile and one eighth route with all starters packing 126 pounds, lists six eligibles for the Derby. The race will be televised (CBS) 4:30-5 p.m. EST.

There are a lot of question marks in the race although the colt collected to provide Head Man's main opposition is Mrs. Lloyd P. Tate's Jean Baptiste. The Winding Way Farm's Golf Ace, and Mrs. Wallace Gilroy's Oh Johnny, the King Racer's Beam Rider, and Mrs. Anson Bigelow's Nail also must answer some questions. Completing the field will be Joseph Gavegan's High King, the Maine Chance Farm's Gun Shot, and George D. Widener's Tellurian. All but Golf Ace, Tellurian and Oh Johnny are eligible for the Derby.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 20 (INS).—Bright and early today Debbie Reynolds reported at U-I for wardrobe fittings and hair styling for "Tammy," which goes before the cameras April 27. She was told that Leslie Nielsen, MGM's hot new prospect who plays June Allyson's husband in "The Opposite Sex," will be co-starred with her.

Joseph Penney has been signed by producer Ross Hunter to direct "Tammy."

Debbie, who expects a baby, told me she feels just great. She sang the song "Tammy," which she'll sing in the picture, to me over the telephone.

"I just sang it to Eddie," she said. "He's in New York and he likes it and I expect him here over the weekend."

Bob Hope, sunning himself in Palm Springs with Dolores and the children, took time out for a discussion with Harry Cohn. There is a big possibility that Bob will star in the "The Great 'Sebastians'" the Lunt and Fontanne Broadway play.

So far, this is only in the discussion stage, but Bob has said right along that the would like to do the Alfred Lunt role in the picture version.

He just had word that "The Seven Little Foys" has grossed six million dollars to date, which is more than any other Hope picture has ever done. Well, I think it's the best Bob ever made. Don't wonder that he wants something substantial in the way of his next screen vehicle.

A very pale Jeanne Crain was at the Mary Anita and Richard Sale farewell party. She came alone, stayed for only a brief time. She isn't discussing the reasons for her matrimonial breakup with Paul Brinkman, but a lot of reasons are given by people close to her.

Paul, himself, cannot talk about it without breaking down and crying. I had no idea the trouble between them started sometime ago, since I thought it happened almost overnight. Paul sees the children weekends, and during the week, but he hasn't seen Jeanne nor talked with her.

I admire her for not talking. Too much is said in the heat of anger.

Lumberman Gets 6 Months, Fine In Tax Trial

A Garrett County lumber mill operator and tavern owner yesterday was sentenced to six months in the federal penitentiary and fined $4,000 when he pleaded guilty to two charges of evading federal income taxes.

Oliver B. Frazee, 53, of Friendsville, was charged with evading taxes in 1952 on gross income of over $19,000, and in 1953 on gross income of over $24,000.

William F. Mosner, assistant U. S. district attorney, who handled the prosecution this morning in U. S. District Court in Baltimore, said Frazee was charged with evasion of taxes from 1945 through 1953, but was only tried on the two latest years.

The government has total liens against Frazee for evaded taxes and penalties totaling $42,000.

Frazee, Federal Judge Rozzell Thomsen said, was told in 1946 by a Garrett County banker that he was not keeping proper records of his business enterprises.

Frazee had been a farmer until 1945 when he purchased a beer tavern in Friendsville. While running the tavern, he bought and began to operate a mill, it was testified.

The Friendsville man said that he got so far behind in keeping his records, that he was afraid to file income tax returns for fear of what might be done to him, the court was told.

The first tip on Frazee came from an unidentified informant from Garrett County, the assistant U. S. attorney said.

The case against Frazee was built up through a check of the lumber he sold from his mill to his various customers, many of them coal mining concerns, Mosner stated.

Judge Thomsen sentenced Frazee to six months in jail on each count, with the sentences to run concurrently. He was fined $1,000 on the first count for the year 1952 and $3,000 for the second count involving the year 1953.

The Friendsville man is the father of eight children, seven by his first wife who is deceased, and one by his second wife, who helps him operate the tavern at Friendsville. In sentencing him to jail, Judge Thomsen stated that in cases such as Frazee's, a fine is not sufficient.

Frazee, through his attorney, Edward J. Ryan of this city, told the court that he wound up in debt every year and felt that since he didn't have any money he didn't owe taxes.

He kept no records, he said, and the U. S. attorney declared that the records of the Friendsville tavern were so jumbled and incomplete that they were not included in the two charges.

MONTE CARLO, April 20 (INS).—Grace Kelly became a postage stamp yesterday.

Philatelists stormed local post offices to snap her up in denominations ranging from one franc (green, naturally) to a gunmetal gray 500-franc item — to be used if anybody wants to mail the casino to a friend.

Aristotle Onassis and Lady Norah Docker, who own respectively the biggest yacht and the only car with gold bumpers in Monte Carlo, are reportedly furious at Prince Rainier for not putting their pictures on the 500-franc job. Rainier stuck with Grace throughout the issue, which seemed to him the only thing to do when dealing with stamps.

Christian Dior is believed to have passed on the flavor of mulligatauni and the pastry chef at the Hotel de Paris ruled on the colors. The 500-franc stamp is red, three-franc royal blue, five-franc pale green, 15-franc bronze, 100-franc purple, 200-franc job is peppermint red and a big casino is in the aforementioned gunmetal. For four bronzes and a royal blue you can airmail a letter home, but one drawback is that the stamps are so large there's no room on the envelope for the address.

Among those not assassinated in the cathedral were former King Farouk of Egypt and present Greek shipping king Aristotle Onassis. Farouk almost skipped the wedding of his friend Rainier because the prince wouldn't give him tickets enough to take his four Albanian bodyguards into the church. Today he stood in the shadows under the big draped Kleig light stand, his back to the wall in the approved self-survival syle. Onassis seemed willing to take bets Wednesday night at the casino that he would be bumped off. Both men were disappointed.

the palace and cathedral, which are located on "The Rock," have been closed to traffic. In the remaining fringes of the nation taxi-cab drivers took 48 hours off and bus drivers absconded with their vehicles. This is roughly like closing off the United States from the Alleghenies to the Rockies.

As a consequence of this let me relate an incident of somewhat paralyzing unimportance: I walked home from the I.N.S. office and in so doing walked across this entire nation. It amounted to maybe five miles but seemingly mostly uphill. On one blistering, parching forced march between water holes I stumbled blindly and fell into France.

She may be Her Serene Highness to Europe's courts and social climbers everywhere but she will always remain "Grace Key" to French-speaking Monegasques. That's the very closest they can come to saying Grace Kelly.

Rainier's police department went to considerable pains to print up special — I said special — car stickers to enable those who had tickets to the cathedral wedding to reach it. The church sits on one

Keeping Up With Hollywood
by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 20 (INS).—Bright and early today Debbie Reynolds reported at U-I for wardrobe fittings and hair styling for "Tammy," which goes before the cameras April 27. She was told that Leslie Nielsen, MGM's hot new prospect who plays June Allyson's husband in "The Opposite Sex," will be co-starred with her.

Joseph Pevey has been signed by producer Ross Hunter to direct "Tammy."

Debbie, who expects a baby, told me she feels just great. She sang the song "Tammy," which she'll sing in the picture, to me over the telephone.

"I just sang it to Eddie," she said. "He's in New York and he likes it and I expect him here over the weekend."

Bob Hope, sunning himself in Palm Springs with Dolores and the children, took time out for a discussion with Harry Cohn. There is a big possibility that Bob will star in "The Great 'Sebastians'" the Lunt and Fontanne Broadway play.

So far, this is only in the discussion stage, but Bob has said right along that the would like to do the Alfred Lunt role in the picture version.

He just had word that "The Seven Little Foys" has grossed six million dollars to date, which is more than any other Hope picture has ever done. Well, I think it's the best Bob ever made. Don't wonder that he wants something substantial in the way of his next screen vehicle.

A very pale Jeanne Crain was at the Mary Anita and Richard Sale farewell party. She came alone, stayed for only a brief time. She isn't discussing the reasons for her matrimonial breakup with Paul Brinkman, but a lot of reasons are given by people close to her.

Paul, himself, cannot talk about it without breaking down and crying. I had no idea the trouble between them started sometime ago, since I thought it happened almost overnight. Paul sees the children weekends, and during the week, but he hasn't seen Jeanne nor talked with her.

I admire her for not talking. Too much is said in the heat of anger.

Lumberman Gets 6 Months, Fine In Tax Trial

A Garrett County lumber mill operator and tavern owner yesterday was sentenced to six months in the federal penitentiary and fined $4,000 when he pleaded guilty to two charges of evading federal income taxes.

Oliver B. Frazee, 53, of Friendsville, was charged with evading taxes in 1952 on gross income of over $19,000, and in 1953 on gross income of over $24,000.

William F. Mosner, assistant U. S. district attorney, who handled the prosecution this morning in U. S. District Court in Baltimore, said Frazee was charged with evasion of taxes from 1945 through 1953, but was only tried on the two latest years.

The government has total liens against Frazee for evaded taxes and penalties totaling $42,000.

Frazee, Federal Judge Roszell Thomsen said, was told in 1946 by a Garrett County banker that he was not keeping proper records of his business enterprises.

Frazee had been a farmer until 1945 when he purchased a beer tavern in Friendsville. While running the tavern, he bought and began to operate a mill, it was testified.

The Friendsville man said that he got so far behind in keeping his records, that he was afraid to file income tax returns for fear the court was told.

The first tip on Frazee came from an unidentified informant from Garrett County, the assistant U. S. attorney said.

The case against Frazee was built up through a check of the lumber he sold from his mill to his various customers, many of them coal mining concerns, Mosner stated.

Judge Thomsen sentenced Frazee to six months in jail on each count, with the sentences to run concurrently. He was fined $1,000 on the first count for the year 1952 and $3,000 for the second count involving the year 1953.

The Friendsville man is the father of eight children, seven by his first wife who is deceased, and one by his second wife, who helps him operate the tavern at Friendsville. In sentencing him to jail, Judge Thomsen stated that in cases such as Frazee's, a fine is not sufficient. Frazee, through his attorney, Edward J. Ryan of this city, told the court that he wound up in debt every year and felt that since he didn't have any money he didn't owe taxes.

He kept no records, he said, and the U. S. attorney declared that the records of the Friendsville tavern were so jumbled and incomplete that they were not included in the two charges.

Nine Local Students To Attend Meeting

Representatives of the staffs of the papers of both Allegany and Fort Hill high schools will attend the 10th annual convention of the Maryland Scholastic Press Association today at the University of Maryland.

A highlight of the meeting will be a symposium on "The Role of the Scholastic Press." The moderator will be Eric Solibakke of Montgomery Blair High School, Silver Spring. Representing the Acohi Mirror will be Eleanor Murphy, who will participate in a news writing contest; Marianne Hoelzer, entered in the editorial writing event; Betty Beck, feature writing section, and Jerry Yankelevitz, who will submit an entry in the sports writing division. Barbara Ossip will be a member of the symposium panel. The Allegany High group will be accompanied by Miss Mary Murray, faculty advisor.

Representing "The Sentinel in the various contests will be Virginia Lillard, news writing; Nancy Showman, feature writing; Harold Schriver, sports, and Calvin Kiffner, editorial. Miss Mary Calem-line, faculty advisor, will accompany the group.

Noel Coward— Three Shows Later

Since he's been on television, Noel Coward is delighted to discover that he's become a celebrity. "All the taxi drivers know me," he reports. "I climb into a cab and they turn around and say, 'Where do you want to go, Noel?' It's very pleasant. The other day I was walking down Madison Avenue and a lady came bursting out of a shop and said: 'Mr. Coward, you're out of this world and I'm from East Orange.' A wonderfully bewildering compliment."

Coward has now made three television appearances, all of them spectacularly different. The first was a 90-minute songfest "with Mary Martin, the second a TV adaptation of his own comedy, "Blithe Spirit," with Lauren Bacall, Claudette Colbert and Mildred Natwick, the third a recitation of Ogden Nash's "Carnival of Animals." Currently, he's rehearsing "This Happy Breed," one of his own favorite plays, with Edna Best, one of his favorite actresses. This will be a CBS-TV production on May 5 and then Mr. Coward will call it quits for the season.

"It's been quite hectic, doing this for the third time. In between shows, there is never quite time to pull myself together. Doing three spectaculars is awfully hard. You must treat each one as a Broadway production and to do three Broadway productions in a row is quite exhausting," said Mr. Coward who was writer, director, producer, composer, lyricist and star of all of them.

"This Happy Breed" is the easiest of the three. It's a very simple story of a middle class English family from 1919, just after the first World War when they move into a house, until 1939 when they move out of the house after the children have grown up.

"I wrote it in 1939 and it's one of my favorite plays. I played it for 30 weeks in London and then they made a film of it, a very interesting film. I play the father and in the first scene I'm supposed to be in my early 30s. The camera will have to be roughly 500 yards away to preserve that illusion," said Coward who is 56 but doesn't look it.

"This will be my pet television venture, I think. 'Blithe Spirit' is a vitality part. So was the Mary Martin show. You have to keep it high. These high-flown comedy parts are great fun but they're terribly exhausting. Comedy is much harder to play. This is as close as I have ever come to an English edition of a George Kelly play. It's ordinary suburban English life, not in any way sophisticated—that dreadful word."

Coward said he had learned a great deal from his three TV appearances. One of them was that he prefers the East Coast to the West Coast to work out of. "They are very nice out there," he added. "But I find the attitude a little different here. They're a little more personal here. Out on the West Coast we had 98 people on the stage of 'Blithe Spirit.' We had seven stage managers. When you get that big an organization, no one knows what anyone else is doing."

Television acting, he says, is a mixture of acting for the stage and the screen and probably a little more difficult than either "because you have to remember about 20 things at once." Along with all the other things, you have to remember which camera is on you and for how long. Sometimes you land in a very awkward position and you can't change it or you're out of focus. The worst part of it is the quick changes. In 'Blithe Spirit' I had to get out of a dinner jacket and into country clothes in 30 seconds. In 'Happy Breed' I'll have about eight minutes to change. After that I have no interval at all to the remaining 15 years. I'll have to make do by putting on glasses and doing the age bit with my body. I'll manage somehow. It's extraordinary what you can do if you have to. And it's great fun."

Despite North's show of spade strength, West doggedly opened the jack of that suit—a lead which should have turned out well for his side. If, by chance, West had led a diamond, it would have done him no good to find East with such an excellent suit. Declarer would simply duck, and eventually get West into an easy squeeze play. As it was, South.

It would have been a very good idea for East to return a heart after taking his diamond trick. Surely, he didn't need extraordinary vision to see that his partner was getting into deep water.

Brakeman Is Killed Here In B&O Yards

Gilbert Friend, 66, Is Run Over By Railroad Car

Gilbert H. Friend, a 66-year-old Baltimore and Ohio Railroad yard brakeman, was killed instantly about 4:20 p. m. yesterday when he was run over by a rail car in the yards about 250 feet east of Williams Street.

Friend, who lived at 217 Union Street, had worked for the B&O about 40 years. It was understood that he had been planning to retire next month.

Ronald W. Pitcher, B&O terminal trainmaster here, said that no one actually saw the car strike the brakeman and there was some uncertainty as to how he happened to have been in the path of some eight cars which were being moved east in the yards.

Friend had signaled the movement of both a 110-car westbound fast freight and the eight east-bound cars and should have been aware of their movements.

There was some conjecture that he may have bumped against the west-bound train and was thrown off balance so that he fell in the path of the other cars.

Dr. H. V. Deming, county deputy medical examiner, who investigated, stated that the car wheels had severed Friend's body at the upper chest. He died instantly.

David Clause, a car inspector, discovered the body when the cars stopped after moving a short distance beyond where Friend was struck.

Born in Swanton, Mr. Friend was a son of the late John B. and Harriett (Comp) Friend. A bachelor who lived alone, he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Burr Saville, Romney, W. Va., and Mrs. Clyde Landis, Keyser, W. Va.; Mrs. William Warnick, Swanton; two brothers, John and Robert Friend, both of Swanton, and a niece, Mrs. Leonard Sweitzer, Bedford Road.

The body is at the Silcox Funeral Residence.

A veteran of World War I, Mr. Friend was a member of United Railroad Operators Craft. Friends will be received at the funeral home after 7:30 p. m. today.

Labor Aloof In Senate Primary

Recent statements by certain local union members indicating labor endorsement of George P. Mahoney for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senate are at variance with a joint directive issued following a meeting of state AFL and CIO delegates to a political conference April 7 in Baltimore.

The directive follows: "No individual or individuals has the right, directly or indirectly to speak in behalf of labor, with the exception of those recommendations made at the state meeting."

At the AFL-CIO session on April 7 the delegates representing thousands of union members in Maryland went on record as endorsing certain congressional candidates in the Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth and Seventh Districts in Maryland.

There was no endorsement for any of the U. S. Senate candidates in Maryland. Neither was there any endorsement by labor of Congressional candidates from Maryland Sixth or First districts.

Labor sources here said no joint committee has been formed so far by AFL and CIO political action groups in Allegany County.

The directive sent to AFL and CIO unions here following the Baltimore conference April 7 was signed by Harry Cohen, of the AFL's Labor League for Political Education, and James Patterson, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland and District of Columbia CIO-PAC.

Democratic Candidates Campaign For Senate

Tydings In Harford

BEL AIR, Md., April 20 (AP) — Millard E. Tydings returned to his home county of Harford today to hear reports that Democratic voters would turn out in a greater number on May 7 than in past primaries.

The candidate for the U. S. Senate nomination was told that interest in the campaign between him and his major opponent, George P. Mahoney, is higher in Harford than in any of the other 23 counties.

W. Lester Davis, chairman of the County Central Committee and a Mahoney supporter, said "we do expect a bigger turnout than in previous elections because we're having a campaign for registration."

He predicted that about 55 per cent of the registered Democratic vote would be cast.

In Harford, Tydings faces a political situation encountered in 16 other counties. The Harford Central Committee had endorsed Mahoney before Tydings entered the race.

To counteract this support, Tydings lost no time today in starting his handshaking. He paid a visit early to a shoe factory at Belcamp, and planned stops at Joppa, Bel Air, Aberdeen and Havre de Grace.

Happy Reunion At Midland

Mrs. Elmer Johnson of Midland was able to smile when the News cameraman took this picture, because her little son Dennis Keith Johnson, who had wandered away and was lost two miles from home on Dan's Mountain, had been found by volunteer searchers and safely returned. The dog in the picture is the little adventurer's pal "Pugy," who was none the worse for wear. Dennis suffered the loss of a glove and an overshoe and a badly torn pair of trousers.

3-Year-Old Midland Lad Lost On Dan's Mountain

A boy and his dog took a stroll yesterday. In fact, they traveled about two miles, which is a very long trek for a little fellow only three years old. But it was quite an adventure, with no serious harm done.

The only casualties were a tired and bewildered little

Fletcher Plans Early Decision On U.S. Position

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher said yesterday his decision on the offer of the post of U. S. Attorney for Maryland "will not be delayed unreasonably."

The post has been held since 1953 by George Cochran Doub, a native of this city, who will be sworn in as assistant U. S. Attorney general in charge of Civil Division on Wednesday or Thursday in the Washington office of Attorney General Herbert Brownell.

This was reported yesterday in Baltimore by U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall. The Frostburg senator also reported that Fletcher has announced no decision about taking the position Doub vacated.

Informed sources report that Fletcher is giving serious consideration to taking the district attorney's position, which has been offered by Senators Beall and John Marshall Butler.

But the same sources also report that he is reluctant to take the job, which would mean a salary of $15,000 a year, complete severance from private practice, and moving his residence to Baltimore.

It was also learned that an acting U. S. attorney for Maryland will be appointed by the Federal District judges, Thomsen, Watkins and Chesnut.

This appointment will be for the interim between the time Doub takes the assistant attorney general's position and the time that a definite announcement is made for his replacement.

Doub is a son of the late Judge A. A. Doub and Mrs. Doub of this city. He resides at Owings Mills near Baltimore.

Keyser Answers Fire

The Keyser Fire Department and the McCool Volunteer Fire Company put out a blaze in the 50-ton runaway tractor-trailer which crashed off U. S. 50 on Allegheny Front Thursday. No one was hurt in the wreck or fire.

Mahoney On Shore

CAMBRIDGE, April 20 (AP) — George P. Mahoney concentrated on the Eastern Shore's farm vote today in his campaign for the Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate.

The Baltimore contractor, opposing Millard E. Tydings in the May 7 primary, spoke out in favor of preservation of the "family-sized farm" as he toured Dorchester County.

"The most important contribution any farm policy can make to the national welfare," he said, "is the preservation of the farm which is not just a commercial enterprise but a family's home."

Mahoney was accompanied on his visit by Grason Winterbottom and Emerson Harrington, leaders of Dorchester's two Democratic factions, and State Comptroller J. Millard Taves, a shore resident. Mahoney talked with farmers, watermen, store clerks, and anyone who crossed his path.

A week ago, Tydings covered much the same ground.

Mahoney planned to make stops in Secretary, East New Market, Williamsburg, Hurlock, Vienna and the Hoopers Island section.

1,157 Children Are Registered For First Grade

Some 1,157 boys and girls have been registered to enroll in the first grade of Allegany County public schools when the new school year begins next September, according to Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county public schools.

Higgins said that reports submitted to him by April 6 showed that 561 girls and 596 boys were registered in the various schools March 22 and 23.

The supervisor noted that in the 1952 school census it was indicated that 1,511 boys and girls would enter the first grade in the fall of 1956. That included children who would enroll in parochial as well as public schools. By the 1954 census that estimate was reduced to 1,444 for both public and parochial schools.

Higgins said that past experience has shown that up to 200 more boys and girls will be enrolled in September who did not register in March. That would bring the total public school first grade enrollment up to 1,357.

Last spring 1,336 boys and girls were registered for the first grade and 1,483 showed up in September. The number of children registered for the first grade in four schools is greater than the number indicated by the 1954 census for both public and parochial schools. They are Barton, East Side, Flintstone and John Hubbard.

Largest first grade registration was at Pennsylvania Avenue School where 91 registered out of 111 indicated for both public and parochial schools in the 1954 census. Up to 18 more can be anticipated at Penn Avenue by September, Higgins indicated.

Second heaviest enrollment was 75 at West Side out of 92 for public and parochial schools indicated by the 1954 census. Some six more can be expected before September.

Boys Are Ordered To Make Restitution

Three local youths were ordered yesterday to make restitution for unrecovered BBs they took from a local store.

Magistrate Morris Baron found guilty the 14-year-old lads charged as delinquent minors and ordered that restitution of $10 be made for 2½ of the 10 cartons of the BBs not recovered by city police.

He placed the boys in the custody of their parents, with orders that allowances and privileges be taken away. He also asked that the boys be given psychiatric examinations by the Health Department.

Data Needed On PPG Dam

BALTIMORE, April 20 (AP) — The Commission of Geology, Mines and Water Resources is awaiting additional data from the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. before ruling on its request for water permits at Cumberland, a spokesman said today.

The company has two applications before the commission: One to build a dam and the other to take 1,820,000 gallons of water daily from the Potomac River.

The Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources office said neither permit has been issued.

The commission has asked the company to provide data comparing the amount of water that would be retained behind the dam with the amount at lowest natural flow of the river to determine whether the dam would at any time impound as much as a million gallons of water.

Facts On Fluorides—2

General Health Unchanged By Fluorides In Water

Today, The Cumberland News, in cooperation with the Allegany-Garrett Dental Society, presents the second in a series of authoritative articles on the fluoridation of community water supplies.

A scientist could scarcely devise a more rigorous test on humans for long-range safety of water fluoridation than nature has provided in Bartlett, Tex.

Fluorides occur naturally in the drinking water of this community at eight times the recommended level.

In the nearby community of Cameron, there is little more than a trace of fluorides in the drinking water.

To determine if the excessive amount of fluorides had any effect on the residents of Bartlett, scientists from the National Institutes of Health compared Bartlett health records over a 10-year period with the records of inhabitants of Cameron.

The Bartlett residents in the study had been drinking water for an average of 37 years at the time of the final examinations.

No Difference Found

Yet, there was no difference between the two towns in death rates. There was no significant difference in blood pressure changes, arthritic conditions, sight or hearing, tumors, cysts, bone fractures or hormone disorders.

The only difference, entirely expected as a result of earlier observation in high-fluoride communities, was a mottling of the teeth in Bartlett residents. This condition does not occur in controlled fluoridation.

Conducting the study were Dr. Nicholas C. Leone, chief of medical investigations, and Dr. Francis A. Arnold, director of the National Institute of Dental Research, and Dr. Eugene R. Zimmerman of Baylor University college of dentistry. Other specialists also cooperated in the study.

They concluded: "When the data are reviewed critically, it is clear the medical characteristics of the two groups, with the exception of dental fluorosis (mottling), do not differ more than would be expected of two comparable towns, with or without excess of fluoride in the water supply."

No Harm To Aged

Before the Commission on Chronic Illness reached its decision to recommend fluoridation of public water supplies in 1954, it investigated any possible harm to the aged persons of the nation.

A committee of distinguished scientists reported finding "no evidence that continued drinking of water containing fluorides at the recommended level of one part per million is in any way harmful to health of adults or those suffering from chronic illness of any kind."

Two recent U. S. Public Health Service studies comparing death rates in 32 fluoride cities and 32 neighboring communities found them to be virtually the same for heart disease, cancer, brain lesions, cirrhosis of the liver and other leading causes of death.

Dr. Charles Cameron, medical director, reported that the American Cancer Society does not regard fluoride salts to be cancer-producing or cancer-aggravating.

A study conducted among the middle-aged and elderly residents at the Southbury Training School in Southbury, Conn., where water has been fluoridated since 1945 brought this finding by Dr. Herman Yarnet, medical director: "We have seen absolutely no evidence of any deleterious effect on these patients."

Local Home Show Deferred To May 9

The third annual Cumberland Home Show has been deferred by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce until May 9-12, according to George L. Carney Jr., general chairman.

Originally planned from April 25 to April 28, the show has been deferred at the request of a number of exhibitors who asked for additional time to arrange for booths and displays.

This year's show will be staged in two buildings adjacent to the Wineow Street A&P Market.

City Will Take On Festive Air For Sale Days

Gay Nineties Dress Will Be In Vogue

Don your fanciest Gay Nineties costumes and come to Cumberland to help the Queen City celebrate the Old Fashioned Bargain Days.

Cumberland will take on a festive air for the celebration planned here April 27 and 28 and 30.

They will be reminiscent of the Old Fashioned Bargain Days which proved one of the major attractions of the Fort Cumberland Bicentennial celebration.

Even more attractions are planned for the sales which open next Friday.

You won't even need your walking shoes, since the City of Cumberland will install benches on downtown streets, where weary shoppers can rest and watch the passing costume parade.

Big Parade Planned

Stores affiliated with the Retail Merchants Association will remain open next Friday, the opening day of the sale, until 9 p. m. and on Saturday, April 28, until 6 p. m.

The sale will end Monday, April 30, with stores open until 9 p. m.

You won't even have to go inside to shop at several of the stores, since stalls will be erected on the sidewalk for street transactions.

One of the major attractions will be the Old Fashioned Bargain Day parade planned next Saturday night.

Thomas F. Conlon, parade chairman, announced yesterday that 30 organizations have responded to invitations to participate and that he anticipates more replies.

Reservations for places in the line of march, he said, will be accepted up to next Thursday night. Units participating in the parade will form at the National Guard Armory at 6 p. m. and march off at 7 p. m.

The parade will march up Centre Street, to Union Street, to George, to Baltimore and up North Centre Street, past Hall, where the Mayor and Council will review the marchers.

From City Hall, the parade will proceed to Market, down Mechanic to Baltimore, down South George and back to the Armory.

A free street dance has been planned outside the Armory from 8 to 10 p. m. Nine fraternal clubs will hold costumed parties from 10 p. m. on.

Officials said costumed marchers and units are invited to take part in the parade and make it a gala affair.

Clerks in the stores will be in old fashioned dress and women in the banks plan to don gay costumes of yesterday in keeping with the celebration.

The demand for costumes has been tremendous. One store has rented over 100 costumes to merchants for use during the sales, and another has sold out of old fashioned patterns three times in recent weeks.

Many citizens will go to the attic to find treasured costumes to wear to the many events planned during the three-day celebration.

Plan Special Menus

Restaurants have been asked to prepare old fashioned menus for the days of the sales, and several plan to costume their staffs for the occasion.

A number of clubs also plan to have old fashioned carriages on the streets to take customers to the club for special luncheons.

Explorer Scouts of the area will man "chuck wagons" on the streets during the sale days, offering old fashioned goodies such as peanuts, popcorn and confections for sale.

The "chuck wagons" will also be on hand Sunday, April 29, when the Cumberland Municipal Band plays a band concert at Constitution Park.

Mrs. Morris Rosenbaum, chairman of the Costume committee for the celebration, said all of the players will be dressed in old fashioned costumes.

Plan Stock Giveaway

During the band concert, a drawing will be held for one of the prizes — a nine-day Caribbean cruise.

Free tickets may be picked up at any of the association stores and are to be deposited in a container at the park. The winner of this prize must be present and in old fashioned dress to be eligible.

An old fashioned livestock giveaway will be one of the new features of the celebration.

Each store affiliated with the association will have free tickets available, for adults only, which may be deposited in the store of one's choice.

Livestock to be given away includes a steer, several hogs and chickens.

All of the livestock will be dressed, ready for delivery. Drawings will be held each sale day and one need not be present to be eligible.

Brakeman Is Killed Here In B&O Yards

Gilbert Friend, 66, Is Run Over By Railroad Car

Gilbert H. Friend, a 66-year-old Baltimore and Ohio Railroad yard brakeman, was killed instantly about 4:20 p. m. yesterday when he was run over by a rail car in the yards about 250 feet east of Williams Street.

Friend, who lived at 217 Union Street, had worked for the B&O about 40 years. It was understood that he had been planning to retire next month.

Ronald W. Pitcher, B&O terminal trainmaster here, said that no one actually saw the car strike the brakeman and there was some uncertainty as to how he happened to have been in the path of some eight cars which were being moved east in the yards.

Friend had signaled the movement of both a 110-car westbound fast freight and the eight east-bound cars and should have been aware of their movements.

There was some conjecture that he may have bumped against the west-bound train and was thrown off balance so that he fell in the path of the other cars.

Dr. H. V. Deming, county deputy medical examiner, who investigated, said that the car wheels had severed Friend's body at the upper chest. He died instantly.

David Clauze, a car inspector, discovered the body when the cars stopped after moving a short distance beyond where Friend was struck.

Born in Swanton, Mr. Friend was a son of the late John B. and Harriett (Comp) Friend. A bachelor who lived alone, he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Burr Saville, Romney, W. Va., and Mrs. Clyde Landis, Keyser, W. Va.; Mrs. William Warnick, Swanton; two brothers, John and Robert Friend, both of Swanton, and a niece, Mrs. Leonard Switzer, Bedford Road.

The body is at the Silcox Funeral Residence.

A veteran of World War I, Mr. Friend was a member of United Railroad Operators Craft. Friends will be received at the funeral home after 7:30 p. m. today.

Labor Aloof In Senate Primary

Recent statements by certain local union members indicating labor endorsement of George P. Mahoney for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senate are at variance with a joint directive issued following a meeting of state AFL and CIO delegates to a political conference April 7 in Baltimore.

The directive follows: "No individual or individuals has the right, directly or indirectly to speak in behalf of labor, with the exception of those recommendations made at the state meeting."

At the AFL-CIO session on April 7 the delegates representing thousands of union members in Maryland went on record as endorsing certain congressional candidates in the Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth and Seventh Districts in Maryland.

There was no endorsement for any of the U. S. Senate candidates in Maryland. Neither was there any endorsement by labor of Congressional candidates from Maryland Sixth or First districts.

Labor sources here said no joint committee has been formed so far by AFL and CIO political action groups in Allegany County.

The directive sent to AFL and CIO unions here following the Baltimore conference April 7 was signed by Harry Cohen, of the AFL's Labor League for Political Education, and James Patterson, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland and District of Columbia CIO-PAC.

Democratic Candidates Campaign For Senate

Tydings In Harford

BEL AIR, Md., April 20 — Millard E. Tydings returned to his home county of Harford today to hear reports that Democratic voters would turn out in a greater number on May 7 than in past primaries.

The candidate for the U. S. Senate nomination was told that interest in the campaign between him and his major opponent, George P. Mahoney, is higher in Harford than in any of the other 23 counties.

W. Lester Davis, chairman of the County Central Committee and a Mahoney supporter, said "we do expect a bigger turnout than in previous elections because we're having a campaign for registration."

He predicted that about 55 per cent of the registered Democratic vote would be cast.

In Harford, Tydings faces a political situation encountered in 16 other counties. The Harford Central Committee had endorsed Mahoney before Tydings entered the race.

To counteract this support, Tydings lost no time today in starting his handshaking. He paid a visit early to a shoe factory at Belcamp, and planned stops at Joppa, Bel Air, Aberdeen and Havre de Grace.

Happy Reunion At Midland

Mrs. Elmer Johnson of Midland was able to smile when the News cameraman took this picture, because her little son Dennis Keith Johnson, who had wandered away and was lost two miles from home on Dan's Mountain, had been found by volunteer searchers and safely returned. The dog in the picture is the little adventurer's pal "Puggy," who was none the worse for wear. Dennis suffered the loss of a glove and an overshoe and a badly torn pair of trousers.

Fletcher Plans Early Decision On U.S. Position

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher said yesterday his decision on the offer of the post of U. S. Attorney for Maryland "will not be delayed unreasonably."

The post has been held since 1953 by George Cochran Doub, a native of this city, who will be sworn in as assistant U. S. Attorney general in charge of Civil Division on Wednesday or Thursday in the Washington office of Attorney General Herbert Brownell.

This was reported yesterday in Baltimore by U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall. The Frostburg senator also reported that Fletcher has announced no decision about taking the position Doub vacated.

Informed sources report that Fletcher is giving serious consideration to taking the district attorney's position, which has been offered by Senators Beall and John Marshall Butler.

But the same sources also report that he is reluctant to take the job, which would mean a salary of $15,000 a year, complete severance from private practice, and moving his residence to Baltimore.

It was also learned that an acting U. S. attorney for Maryland will be appointed by the Federal District Judges, Thomsen, Watkins and Chesnut.

This appointment will be for the interim between the time Doub takes the assistant attorney general's position and the time that a definite announcement is made for his replacement.

Doub is a son of the late Judge A. A. Doub and Mrs. Doub of this city. He resides at Owings Mills near Baltimore.

Keyser Answers Fire

The Keyser Fire Department and the McCool Volunteer Fire Company put out a blaze in the 50-ton runaway tractor-trailer which crashed off U. S. 50 on Allegheny Front Thursday. No one was hurt in the wreck or fire.

Mahoney On Shore

CAMBRIDGE, April 20 — George P. Mahoney concentrated on the Eastern Shore's farm vote today in his campaign for the Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate.

The Baltimore contractor, opposing Millard E. Tydings in the May 7 primary, spoke out in favor of preservation of the "family-sized farm" as he toured Dorchester County.

"The most important contribution any farm policy can make to the national welfare," he said, "is the preservation of the farm which is not just a commercial enterprise but a family's home."

Mahoney was accompanied on his visit by Grason Winterbottom and Emerson Harrington, leaders of Dorchester's two Democratic factions, and State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, a shore resident.

Mahoney talked with farmers, watermen, store clerks, and anyone who crossed his path. A week ago, Tydings covered much the same ground.

Mahoney planned to make stops in Secretary, East New Market, Williamsburg, Hurlock, Vienna and the Hoopers Island section.

1,157 Children Are Registered For First Grade

Some 1,157 boys and girls have been registered to enroll in the first grade of Allegany County public schools when the new school year begins next September, according to Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county public schools.

Higgins said that reports submitted to him by April 6 showed that 561 girls and 596 boys were registered in the various schools March 22 and 23.

The supervisor noted that in the 1952 school census it was indicated that 1,511 boys and girls would enter the first grade in the fall of 1956. That included children who would enroll in parochial as well as public schools. By the 1954 census that estimate was reduced to 1,444 for both public and parochial schools.

Higgins said that past experience has shown that up to 200 more boys and girls will be enrolled in September who did not register in March. That would bring the total public school first grade enrollment up to 1,357.

Last spring 1,336 boys and girls were registered for the first grade and 1,483 showed up in September. The number of children registered for the first grade in four schools is greater than the number indicated by the 1954 census for both public and parochial schools. They are Barton, East Side, Flintstone and John Humbird.

Largest first grade registration was at Pennsylvania Avenue School where 91 registered out of 111 indicated for both public and parochial schools in the 1954 census. Up to 18 more can be anticipated at Penn Avenue by September, Higgins indicated. Second heaviest enrollment was 75 at West Side out of 92 for public and parochial schools indicated by the 1954 census. Some six more can be expected before September.

City Will Take On Festive Air For Sale Days

Gay Nineties Dress Will Be In Vogue

Don your fanciest Gay Nineties costumes and come to Cumberland to help the Queen City celebrate the Old Fashioned Bargain Days.

Cumberland will take on a festive air for the celebration planned here April 27 and 28 and 30.

They will be reminiscent of the Old Fashioned Bargain Days which proved one of the major attractions of the Fort Cumberland Bicentennial celebration.

Even more attractions are planned for the sales which open next Friday.

You won't even need your walking shoes, since the City of Cumberland will install benches on downtown streets, where weary shoppers can rest and watch the passing costume parade.

Big Parade Planned

Stores affiliated with the Retail Merchants Association will remain open next Friday, the opening day of the sale, until 9 p. m. and on Saturday, April 28, until 6 p. m. The sale will end Monday, April 30, with stores open until 9 p. m.

You won't even have to go inside to shop at several of the stores, since stalls will be erected on the sidewalk for street transactions.

One of the major attractions will be the Old Fashioned Bargain Day parade planned next Saturday night.

Thomas F. Conlon, parade chairman, announced yesterday that 30 organizations have responded to invitations to participate and that he anticipates more replies.

Reservations for places in the line of march, he said, will be accepted up to next Thursday night. Units participating in the parade will form at the National Guard Armory at 6 p. m. and march off at 7 p. m.

The parade will march up Centre Street, to Union Street, to George, to Baltimore and up North Centre Street, past Hall, where the Mayor and Council will review the marchers.

From City Hall, the parade will proceed to Market, down Mechanic to Baltimore, down South George and back to the Armory.

A free street dance has been planned outside the Armory from 8 to 10 p. m. Nine fraternal clubs will hold costumed parties from 10 p. m. on.

Officials said costumed marchers and units are invited to take part in the parade and make it a gala affair.

Clerks in the stores will be in old fashioned dress and women in the banks plan to don gay costumes of yesterday in keeping with the celebration.

The demand for costumes has been tremendous. One store has rented over 100 costumes to merchants for use during the sales, and another has sold out of old fashioned patterns three times in recent weeks.

Many citizens will go to the attic to find treasured costumes to wear to the many events planned during the three-day celebration.

Plan Special Menus

Restaurants have been asked to prepare old fashioned menus for the days of the sales, and several plan to costume their staffs for the occasion.

A number of clubs also plan to have old fashioned carriages on the streets to take customers to the club for special luncheons.

Explorer Scouts of the area will man "chuck wagons" on the streets during the sale days, offering old fashioned goodies such as peanuts, popcorn and confections for sale.

The "chuck wagons" will also be on hand Sunday, April 29, when the Cumberland Municipal Band plays a band concert at Constitution Park.

Mrs. Morris Rosenbaum, chairman of the Costume committee for the celebration, said all of the players will be dressed in old fashioned costumes.

Plan Stock Giveaway

During the band concert, a drawing will be held for one of the prizes — a nine-day Caribbean cruise.

Free tickets may be picked up at any of the association stores and are to be deposited in a container at the park. The winner of this prize must be present and in old fashioned dress to be eligible.

An old fashioned livestock giveaway will be one of the new features of the celebration.

Each store affiliated with the association will have free tickets available, for adults only, which may be deposited in the store of one's choice.

Livestock to be given away includes a steer, several hogs and chickens.

All of the livestock will be dressed, ready for delivery. Drawings will be held each sale day and one need not be present to be eligible.
